GIRL TELLS OWN STORY OF ABDUCTION

ACCUSED BY YOUNG PUPIL

Mildred Royer, the seventeen-year-old girl whom Chester H. Reynolds of Acadia Park, Somerville, is charged with attempting to abduct, told today her own story of her own experiences.

Reynolds has denied that he had any wrong intention in taking the girl from her home. He said his action was that of a friend and that it was done with the consent of his wife.

Miss Royer tells a story that differs somewhat from that of Reynolds. She said:

"I don't see why I ever went with him. I don't love him. I never loved him. But you know, he kept coaxing, me until I thought that if I went, just for a little while, why then, he wouldn't tease — say more. So I went. You see, he met me last Wednesday morning, as I was going to school.

"He said very exciting things to me. He said that he loved me, that he would do anything for me; and he was so much older than I, and he knew so much about everything—everything that is interesting in life, and he talked so long, that I got very excited, too.

HAD LOTS OF MONEY.

"He gave me things, very lovely things that a girl is glad to have given her. And then he had a great deal of money. I thought all the while, mustn't it be wonderful to be a great strong man and to make lots of money like that. So I went.

"But I wouldn't want you to think—that I am not just as good a girl as I was—before I went—because I am."

"I was a very bad girl to—to trust him at all. I had no errand in there; but—well, you know sometimes people, when they become very excited, will do things—impulsive things, that they are sorry that they have done afterward.

"When I got there I stayed over

MOB TRIES TO GET AT SLAYER

Chicopee, Oct. 24.—Francis Ducharme, who confessed that he killed three-year-old Leona Kaczar, was arraigned and held for the Grand Jury in the court here today, while a crowd of a thousand angry men outside the City Hall muttered and swore and fought to get their hands on him.

While Ducharme was being arraigned a patrol wagon drove up to the side door of the hall. Twenty police officers came out on the run, with Ducharme in their midst. They hustled him into the car.

Someone saw them, and yelled, and the waiting crowd took up the cry and poured around the building to intercept the machine, but it shot away before they could intercept it, and took Ducharme to the Hampden County Jail at Springfield.

The funeral of the little victim was held in the home of the parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Kaczar, of No. 1046 Exchange street, this morning. Scores of friends of the parents attended both the services at the home and in St. Stanislaus' Church, many of them attending the burial service in St. Patrick's Cemetery in Chicopee Falls.

Ducharme appeared the least concerned of all who because of their official position had become connected with the case.

FARMERS SHUT OFF MILK FOR BOSTON

Plainfield, Ct., Oct. 24.—A "milk strike" was declared by the farmers throughout this section today, according to reports received here, and not a can of the 200,000 quarts of milk daily shipped to Boston and other New England points was sent out, it was said, because of the failure of the farmers to receive from the dealers the prices demanded by them.

The farmers have been getting 42 cents for an 8½-quart can and now ask 50 cents while the dealers are offering 47 cents.

For the shipments to Providence, R. I., which it is said average about 80,000 quarts a day, the farmers have been getting 47 cents for a 16-quart can and are now asking 55 cents.

GRISWOLD MANSION ROBBED

By International News Service.

New York, Oct. 24.—Between $80,000 and $100,000 in jewelry was the booty carried away by burglars who early today broke into the palatial Summer home of Frank Gray Griswold, society man and prominent in the world of sports, at Roslyn, L. I.

The thief escaped after Mrs. Griswold's daughter, Miss Mary Cary Canfield, awakened and gave the alarm.

The police believe chloroform was used by the thieves to keep the Griswold family asleep while the house was being looted.

A wad of absorbent cotton which had not been there when the family retired was found at the foot of Mrs. Griswold's bed this morning. Near Miss Canfield's bed was a handkerchief with a faint odor of chloroform.

The police decided not to risk bringing Ducharme out by that door, and so when the time came an innocent-looking touring car ran past the hall on the opposite side from where the van was waiting.

RUSHED OFF IN AUTO.

It slowed down and barely stopped before the door, and three police officers came out on the run, with Ducharme in their midst. They hustled him into the car.

Someone saw them, and yelled, and the waiting crowd took up the cry and poured around the building to intercept the machine, but it shot away before they could intercept it, and took Ducharme to the Hampden County Jail at Springfield.

Missing Lowell School Girl Found in Boston

Miss Alice E. Rousseau, a fifteen-year-old Lowell girl, who disappeared on her way to school and who was believed to have been kidnaped, was found in Boston by a policeman today and turned over to the State Board of Charity.

Relatives of the girl were notified and came to Boston. Miss Rousseau is expected to return to her home at No. 95 Pawtucket street, Lowell, tonight.

Miss Rousseau, who is a student at the Notre Dame Academy, left home ostensibly for school yesterday and did not return. Her mother discovered her absence at noon, and her father reported for disappearance to the police of Boston and Lowell. A search was started which resulted in the girl being picked up in Boston today.

The reason for the girl's appearance was not known in Lowell today.

As far as it could be learned, Miss Rousseau did not wear any stone when she left home. All of her shoes were accounted for, although it is believed she may have bought or to have been given a new pair.

The girl is very attractive and there was a report that a young man had been paying attention to her, but the police said he had not been seen near the girl's home for three months.

1,500 GERMANS TAKEN PRISONERS

London, Oct. 24.—The capture of 1,500 Germans by the Anglo-French forces in the latest gust of fighting near Bapaume was announced by the War Office today. Of these the British captured 1,000 between Schwaben redoubt and LeSars. The balance were taken by the French north of Sailly Saillisel.

All of the ground captured by the British between Guedecourt and Lesboeufs has been consolidated despite heavy artillery fire by the Germans, the official report says.

It was at that point that the British captured 1,000 yards of trenches in severe fighting that lasted all day Monday.

HAVERHILL MAYOR ON TRIAL

Lawrence, Oct. 24.—William W. Roberts, city clerk of Haverhill, was the first witness called today in the trial of Mayor Albert L. Bartlett and four Aldermen of Haverhill, who are charged with failure to suppress a riotous disturbance which followed a sensational experience of Thomas F. Leyden, anti-Catholic speaker.

The hearing was before Judge Quinn. City Clerk Roberts testified that Albert L. Bartlett and other members of the Haverhill City Council were duly elected and qualified.

The second witness was Dr. Herbert E. Waise, who is supposed to have been active in getting Leyden to go to Haverhill.

TRANSFER FROM SALEM.

A jury in this case was selected in Salem, but the case was transferred to Lawrence owing to its proximity to Haverhill.

The case hinges upon the riots which occurred in Haverhill on April 3 and 4 last. Leyden attempted to deliver a lecture in City Hall purporting to deal with the parochial system. It was asserted that an anti-Catholic movement was on foot and a large crowd stormed the hall. Windows were smashed and a flight of "Free Speech" was burned in effigy. The disturbance spread to other parts of the city where bum rows houses were stoned and many people were injured.

Leyden made his escape from the city in an automobile.

The Haverhill Ministers' Association immediately demanded an investigation, particularly of the failure of the city officials to suppress such a proceeding.

CLERGYMAN WITNESS.

District Attorney Louis P. Cox in his opening say that the Commonwealth would attempt to show that the men on the Haverhill City Council had failed to comply with the law in failing to suppress the riots on April 3 and 4. Rev. Frederick Atkinson, who was at the Leyden meeting, testified that Alderman Hunt spoke to the gathering warning them of the serious nature of the affair. Hunt had warned Leyden not to proceed, that the crowd outside was hostile. Leyden, however, attempted to talk but the crowd would not let him. Dr. Atkinson saw Leyden leave the hall, but not right him after. The crowd had thrown missiles through the windows breaking them.

Cross-examined he said he had opposed Leyden coming to Haverhill.

Dr. Herbert E. Waise testified that he was responsible for the appearance of Leyden in Haverhill, although he stated that he had consulted City Hall for him. He said that his home had been attacked and seven windows broken, that his office had been visited and the windows and show cases broken.

Under cross-examination he was asked if he had any feeling in the matter. Dr. Waise tried to distribute literature in the court room, but was stopped. The nature of this literature is unknown.

Gerard Confers With Wilson On War Situation

By STUART GODWIN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Shadow Lawn, N. J., Oct. 24.—Ambassador James W. Gerard had luncheon with President Wilson today. The main object of the visit of the American ambassador to Germany is believed to have been to lay before the President the fact that there is a strong and powerful element in the Kaiser's empire urgently clamoring for a resumption of ruthless submarine warfare, but that this element is not strong enough to control the situation.

The ambassador was expected to tell Mr. Wilson of certain peace suggestions which reached him through unofficial channels while he was in Berlin. These suggestions, however, according to sources close to the ambassador, are not of such a nature as to lead to any action on the part of the administration.

FRENCH AVIATOR ATTACKS TRENCHES

Paris, Oct. 24.—The French War Office communique today said that a French aviator flew over the enemy trenches at St. Pierre Vaast wood, and when above them opened fire with a machine gun.

There was a violent artillery duel throughout the night, the communique stated that the artillery exchanges were especially severe in the sectors in the Somme region, to the west and southwest of Peronne.

There were no infantry actions on that part of the front held by the French.

CRUSHING RUMANIA ON TWO SIDES

By International News Service.

Berlin, Oct. 24.—Teutonic armies are crushing Rumania on two sides. Following up the capture of the important seaport of Constanza, Von Mackensen today reports that the town of Rasova on the Danube has fallen, while Von Falkenhayn, on the northwestern frontier, has taken the gateway town of Predeal.

The capture of Medidia, halfway between Constanza and Cernavoda, on the Bucharest-Constanza railroad, is conceded by the Petrograd War Office today.

Today's report of the War Office says that in the Dobrudja campaign 18 officers and 4,693 men have been captured, including those reported on October 23.

Bucharest has been bombarded again by aviators, the statement says.

The enemy yields in confusion before our right wing, the official report states. The fleeing cavalry of the allies (Teutonic) has reached the district of Cernavodal.

"South of Kremaalil, or Brasso, yesterday Predeal was captured," says the report from the Austro-Hungarian staff at Hedhartburg, "and the strong Rumanian resistance has been broken."

FLEEING ACROSS DANUBE.

The capture of Cernavoda, where the only bridge between Bulgaria and the Black Sea crosses the Danube, is hourly expected. It is reported that a part of the Rumanian army has already fled across the river.

Another report is that the Rumanians, in order to prevent the German allies from crossing the Danube, have wrecked part of the twelve-mile bridge which spans the river and adjacent swampy lands at Cernavoda.

The Bulgarians, which was captured by Von Mackensen yesterday, are being heavily fortified to ward off possible attacks by Rumanian warships.

HOLD 4,000 MILES.

DEUTSCHLAND DODGES FOE BY QUICK DIVE

The personal narrative of Captain Paul Koenig, who commanded the German merchant submarine Deutschland on her successful voyage to this country, has created the most intense interest in Berlin, and some of the more interesting passages are coming to this country by mail.

The opening instruments of the narrative deal with the original plans for the construction of the boat, the work of building her, the weeks of experimentation and correction, and finally the start from Bremen for the open sea.

Captain Koenig tells his story vividly, with a keen relish for the grim humor of his exploit. His description of the first stages of his voyage runs thus:

"Soon the German coast has been for some time out of sight. And far torpedo boat before us is the last sight of our Fatherland.

"We are not to remain and go to meet the unknown. From all sides dangers surround us. And I must be positive the boat is in the best order. I command make ready for a practice dive.

"The answer from the conning tower and 'central' is given immediately. And the crew hurries to its diving apparatus. The hatch is closed and we shut down the oil motors.

"Then sounds the command:

"'Open the diving tanks.'

DULLS OF DIVING.

"Under water I can read the progress of the diving. By means of the taking in water all have gotten the order to my instruments have made me sure that they are working.

"Outside so light breaks in. The periscope is long since pulled away. We have been changed entirely into a fish. We know we can safely trip in the deep with the Deutschland.

"About 2 o'clock in the morning I am awakened by a 'hello' from the speaking tube, close to my pillow by the wall. My mate, Foring, reports a white light on the starboard. He is coming it on my battle. I can go quickly, rush around the corner of the central, hoist up the hatch through the conning tower hatch to the bridge.

"Everything is more merry. It may be positive the boat is in the best order. I command make ready for a practice dive.

"The answer from the conning tower and 'central' is given immediately. And the crew hurries to its diving apparatus. The hatch is closed and we shut down the oil motors.

"We are not to remain and go to meet the unknown. From all sides dangers surround us. And I must be positive the boat is in the best order. I command make ready for a practice dive.

COUNSEL CLASH IN CARPENTER HEARING

Concord, N. H. Oct. 24—Charging that the attorney for Mrs. Marguerite Paul Carpenter, who is making a contest against the decree of divorce granted her husband, Ralph G. Carpenter, were simply trying to establish exceptions to take the case to the Supreme Court, Senator Nathaniel E. Martin opened his argument before Judge Kivel today.

"If they didn't think enough of them to secure them during the trial, they should not be permitted to secure them now," he added. "The charge of Mrs. Carpenter's counsel that seven of the witnesses perjured themselves has fallen flat.

This charge of perjury is an afterthought of the counsel, who are trying to gain something in order to help out their $2,000,000 alienation suit in Massachusetts.

COMBAT PERJURY CHARGE.

"If General Streeter is consistent in his charges of perjury, he should include Mrs. Carpenter and J. Gould Day, as their testimony was the same as the witnesses in a great many respects.

"I expect," said he, "a woman to lie who would defend a divorce suit on statutory charges. They admit everything we say, except that Mrs. Carpenter and Day loitered inside the Gables cottage.

"Our witnesses might have done better work, but they exercised their own judgment. Nothing more was necessary for them to do to draw a correct conclusion of Mrs. Carpenter's and Day's acts.

"When people put themselves in a position where the reasonable conclusion is that they are guilty of certain misconduct they convict themselves."

HAD "EVIDENCE ENOUGH."

Senator Martin said in regard to Mr. Carpenter's own observations at Magnolia that Mr. Carpenter did not go farther for he thought the evidence he had was enough. He also called attention to the fact that Mr. Carpenter had field glasses.

Senator Martin contended that the views of the premises taken under conditions supposed to be the same as existed a year ago were unfair, because a year ago there were seven or eight windows of the Whitney cottage shedding light upon the Gables porch.

General Streeter's charge that the false evidence was procured by Mr. Carpenter's attorneys is wrong. He laid great stress upon this point, saying that he had never run across anything like it before and he doubted if the judge had either.

COUNSEL CASH.

Continuing, he said, "Mrs. Carpenter declares that she was lonesome. Why didn't she stay in the office of the hotel with decent people. This woman pointed her face, smoked and drank in the absence of her husband."

General Streeter—You are mistaken.

Judge—I will follow my recollection of the testimony.

"Then," Carpenter was not guilty of connivance or responsible for his wife's downfall. She went to Magnolia through an arrangement with her friend, George Dickson. The hotel at which she stopped is highly reputable. Mr. Carpenter in no way threw her in company of Ganson Depew or Day."

The case was expected to be taken under advisement by the court late today.

MRS. VINCENT ASTOR DIRECTS FIRE FORCE

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Oct. 24.—A bucket brigade, formed of employes on the estate of Robert F. Huntington Office as "unfriendly" in tone and intent, and the German government in turn sent a sharp demand to Christiania demanding a backdown.

The attitude of Sweden and Denmark on the same question is favorable to Germany, and on this score there is no possibility of estrangement. Berlin, however, is watching with marked attention the strenuous efforts now being conducted by the entente powers to enlist the Scandinavian countries on their side and bring about their active co-operation in the war.

Advices from Berlin today pointed out that the restrictions placed by England upon the export trade to Sweden are working great hardships on that country. Sweden is dependent upon England for her coal.

In Denmark popular sentiment is largely pro-ally. The further course of that government's action will be decided, students of international relations agree, by Sweden's actions.

Added anxiety was caused in Berlin today, according to dispatches from the German capital, by the news of the agreement reached between Sweden and Russia for the release of vessels detained in Russian ports. Similar negotiations are reported under way between Sweden and England.

EXPECT NORWAY TO DEFY KAISER

By International News Service.

Amsterdam, Oct. 24.—A crisis has arisen between Germany and Norway, the climax of which, it is feared in some quarters in Germany, may be a diplomatic break between the two countries.

At the same time there are symptoms of a gradual tendency on the part of Sweden toward the entente allies, symptoms which in pro-ally circles here are interpreted as foreshadowing substantial agreements and possibly an alliance.

The continuance of "friendly relations" between Germany and Norway depends upon the latter government's answer to Berlin's note demanding recession from the stand taken regarding the treatment of German submarines in open Norwegian waters.

The original Norwegian note on this subject was resented by the German Foreign Office as "unfriendly" in tone and intent, and the German government in turn sent a sharp demand to Christiania demanding a backdown.

The attitude of Sweden and Denmark on the same question is favorable to Germany, and on this score there is no possibility of estrangement. Berlin, however, is watching with marked attention the strenuous efforts now being conducted by the entente powers to enlist the Scandinavian countries on their side and bring about their active co-operation in the war.

MRS. MATSUKI DIED BY HANGING

The funeral of Mrs. Martha F. Matsuki, wife of Bunkio Matsuki, the well-known Boston Japanese merchant, who was found dead in her apartment in Brookline, will be held in Beverly tomorrow. The service will be from the First Unitarian Church, the burial being in the family lot in Beverly.

Mrs. Matsuki committed suicide by hanging, according to the finding of Medical Examiner Harry M. Cutts of Brookline.

She was found in her room early Sunday morning by her mother, Mrs. Horace Meacom. When Mrs. Matsuki failed to arise at her usual hour, Mrs. Meacom became alarmed and going into the room found her daughter lifeless. She summoned her grandchildren: Dr. Benjamin S. Blanchard, the family physician, was called and he pronounced her dead.

Medical Examiner Cutts was called and viewed the body and said that it was a case of suicide.

Mrs. Matsuki was born in Salem forty-four years ago. Besides her husband she is survived by her mother, four children, Tsuya, a student at the N. E. Conservatory of Music; Katherine, Eleanor and Edward Matsuki, and one brother.

Mr. Matsuki, who was in New York when his wife died, was summoned and arrived at the home last night. Mrs. Matsuki was an active member of the Leyden Congregational Church, Brookline, and had a wide circle of friends.

Washington, Oct. 24.—It has been learned that 300 negro workmen arrived in Washington Saturday night on a special train from Jacksonville, Fla. They were destined for Eastern cities.

Political purpose in transporting the workmen to the North was denied. It was said they were needed in the North to replace European laborers called home to fight.

The man in charge of the train said 10,000 negroes had been taken North from Florida alone.

$10,000 IN HUGHES MONEY "MISSING"

By International News Service.

Washington, Oct. 24. The Hiram Hughes money reported to be in existence here has disappeared, according to a prominent Democratic office holder. This man, who refused to allow his name to be used, said when $5,000 in cash was carried by the Hughes supporter at his own odds of 2 to 1, the Hughes man said in a confused fashion the money had "got yet arrived."

ROOSEVELT FLAYS BAKER FOR SPEECH

Albuquerque, N. M., Oct. 24.—Theodore Roosevelt, speaking here, denounced Secretary of War Baker for his reported comparison of Washington's soldiers with Mexican revolutionists. He also criticized the President for putting Mr. Baker in the Cabinet in the first place, and for keeping him there after the reported comparison.

SAY BANK CLERK SPENT MONEY ON WOMEN

Back of the arrest of Percy G. Moulton of some land claims, on a charge of obtaining bonds worth $7,500, lies a story of the white lights of Boston, of wine, women and song, and song according to police officials.

While Moulton pleaded not guilty to the forgery charge against him, the police say he confessed, and that his father-in-law, Frederick E. Brock, of Down in Scituate and Peabody, where everyone knows the Moulton family, the arrest of the young man caused quite a stir. It blasted what was supposed to be a quiet and serene domesticity.

Frederick E. Brock of the Home Savings Bank, No. 74 Tremont street, where Moulton was employed and found out about the forgeries, and stealing the bonds, denied today that Moulton had confessed any other thefts of consequence.

FATHER TO AID BOY.

"The thefts aside from the bonds were of comparatively small sums," he said, "amounting to a few hundred dollars. They covered a period of several months."

The elder Brock's father has agreed to make good any losses traced to his son.

It was reported yesterday that Moulton's father had succeeded in recovering the bonds, and, finding them in a safe deposit vault. They were issued by the United States Steel Corporation.

Moulton was held in $5,000 after his arraignment, the father furnished the bail, sticking in qualifying as a good bondsman that he has accumulated wealth and property amounting to $5,000.

The scene of Moulton's career among the "white lights" of Boston's cafes came to light through an inspection of the papers in his case, on file in the court.

The name of Miss Grace Toomey of No. 14 Townsend street, Roxbury, is entered there as a witness, together with the name of President Brock and of the two patrolmen who arrested Moulton.

Investigation disclosed the police belief that Miss Toomey would be able to testify as to the cafe side of Moulton's life, and as to his associations with young women of congenial tastes.

Miss Toomey, they said, was a close friend of Moulton, and was frequently seen with him in Boston cafes. They believe she can give some idea of just how lavishly Moulton spent his money.

TOLD OF MOULTON'S CAREER.

The detectives also located another young woman, known as "Mildred Davis." They told her they would bring her into court as a "vagabond" if she did not tell what she knew of Moulton's life, and under this penalty, she, it is said, told them many stories of Moulton's career.

Miss Toomey was questioned all day Sunday before she would reveal what she knew, the police said.

Moulton's young Moulton's salary as a clerk at the Home Savings Bank was only $15 a month. It was learned today that for some months he had been paying $50 a month for an elaborate suite in Boston.

A young woman is said to have spent considerable of her leisure time in this suite.

When Miss Toomey was located in Roxbury she revealed that she knew young Moulton's arrest she had communicated with him by telephone and that she received certain instructions from him.

"I was talking with him Monday," she said.

It was also brought out that Miss Toomey was expecting a written message from young Moulton. When the reporter arrived at No. 14 Townsend street he found a piece of cardboard attached to the mail box of Miss Toomey's suite, reading:

"Messenger: Ring bell of F. B. Norman's suite—No. 3. Miss Toomey."

Miss Toomey's voice answered the bell of Norman's suite, and a few moments later a young man came down and said he was "Mr. Norman." He went to a neighboring house and returned with Miss Toomey.

WAS HIGHLY INDIGNANT.

When it became known that they were talking to a reporter Miss Toomey became highly incensed and with "Mr. Norman" guarding her from the reporter hurried to the house she had just left and went inside with her escort.

Boston cafes waiters recall the many expensive "parties" attended by young Moulton, when he was either with several friends or with a young woman described as "slim and good-looking."

He was sporty—a good spender, said one waiter.

Moulton's friendship and visits to the bright lights with the young woman known as "Miss Mildred Davis" cover only a period of four months.

The young bank clerk was arrested after he had returned from a vacation during which the theft of the bonds was discovered.

SURRENDERS SELF ON MURDER CHARGE

Michael Corey, whose right name is Vito Reistanio, forty-four years, surrendered himself to criminal officers named J. Hines of the Dudley street station on a charge of murder.

Corey admitted to the police that he killed Alphonso Sullo, a fellow countryman, with whom he had had trouble for some time, and he decided to give himself up when a friend told him that Sullo was dead.

Corey lives outside the Fraternity High School building, Winthrop street, Roxbury.

DENIES KILLING ALPHONSO SULLO

Michael Carl of Revere, for whom the police have been searching practically a month, in connection with the death of Alphonso Sullo, pleaded not guilty today in the Roxbury Court to a charge of manslaughter. His case was continued until November 2. He is out on $2,500 bail. The police say Carl died of injuries received during an argument with Sullo.

Mrs. Fiske Is Strong in 'Erstwhile Susan'

By FRED J. McISAAC.

In every theatrical season there are usually one or two plays which have an individuality that causes you to remember them above all the others. They are not always the best, the most amusing, or the most artistic plays of the year, but they have a flavor that clings.

"Erstwhile Susan," in which Mrs. Fiske is making her appearance at the Tremont Theatre, is one of the plays you won't be able to forget. It is a comedy by Rida Johnson Young, based upon Helen R. Martin's novel, "Tillie: A Mennonite Maid," and deals with the Pennsylvania Dutch.

As meeting strange people and becoming acquainted with odd customs is said to be very broadening, educational advantages might be claimed for "Erstwhile Susan," as it is full of Introduced to types that are utterly unfamiliar. It is strongly a comedy of character, and old Hornsby Dreary, his two sons, and Juliet Miller are as remarkable curiosities as were ever brought from foreign parts.

TAMES GORILLA-MAN.

Messrs. Corey and Hilter have aided the authoress by providing a superb company in parting form for characters. Mrs. Fiske has been gifted with one of those rare opportunities, a really big part in a really good play.

Juliet, erstwhile Susan, is an ecstatic and scientific epicurist, who has been an actress, reader and lecturer, and whom yearning for a daughter persuades her to marry Hornsby Dreary, a gorilla-like person who has buried two wives. Juliet tames her new husband and turns the daughter from a house hold drudge into a modern coutess and is in every way delightful.

The naturalist who discovered that a leopard can't change his spots ought to argue that Juliets are wouldn't work except on the stage, but the possibilities are not very badly strained.

Mrs. Fiske still engenders in her curious way, placing infections to strange pieces, clouding her recitations and reciting with them together, but her extraordinary personality triumphs just the same. Her very lazy and impudence enable her to make consistent and lovable a part that would in less skilful hands be of almost anybody else.

Walter Wilson, who plays the unfortunate Hornsby, who is married to Susan, unfortunate because he falls off a roof and gets a bump on his head in the third act, manages to build a remarkably character out of a very slight part. Mr. Wilson has been into a typical stage Dutchman, indeed Stowy and Rikel Keen, the two good old souls, are both there and are equally successful in their characterizations.

Madeline Delmar as Harmabella, a part which was probably intended to be the reading heroine, does not get hold of Juliet, performs very skilfully that transition from the drudge to freedom. Henry Mortimer, John Daly Murphy and Wilda Mitchison are all excellent. It's a charming and interesting play, normally presented.

GAIETY THEATRE—A most gorgeous and elaborate burlesque production is presented by Max Rosenberg, Irwin Weiss's newest laugh fest at the Gaiety Theatre for a week's engagement. Last season opened as Merry Rounders was thought to be the limit that a burlesque show could go in the way of expense, but it has exceeded all other efforts in this season's production. The investment in two acts with ten massive scenes, requiring the services of two score people. It is a feast of brilliant and lilting singing and rollicking dancing numbers, and has the usual typical Bifocal chorus.

BEACON THEATRE—Wonderfully arranged combination programs can be seen at the New Beacon Theatre this week. On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday Robert Edeson, supported by Jane Cullinan and a company of 40, will be shown in Rolfred Hamlin's four-famous story, "Strongheart," produced by Edeson's own company. Thursday, Friday and Saturday Pauline Frederick will be the star in "Paid in Full," by Eleanor Gates. The remainder of the bill includes Ethel Green Mack, the girl with the magical voice; Ward & Wilson, in "A Night in a Hotel," and Ethel Mae Barker, the child violinist. Monday, Tuesday and Saturday programs will be changed, but the Wednesday and Thursday programs will remain very well balanced, including Norman Young in the Norman Conquest.

SAVOY THEATRE—The patrons come back Ray Playhouse and find a new manager in the person of Robert McKinley, who is well known in theatrical circles of the city. He is heralded as a singer and pianist of ability and has been in that of Hall Caine's novels, who presented a new company. Among the players will included Anderson and Goodrich, Walton and Brown, Walton and Brown, musical comedy, and Ethel Mae Barker, the child violinist, with new and novel offerings. Pictures from the Keystone and Pathe News, and the usual overture on the bill was rendered.

BOWDOIN PAIN—There was a housewarming round at the Bowdoin Building yesterday afternoon when the new theatre of the Bowdoin Square Theatre was opened by the management of the Food Fair Theatre. Over 1000 guests were present and were installed at the entrance early in the day, and from then on the house was filled with high priced of the chorus poured into the house. Acquisition was to be the seats at $25 per box. This was an all-star qualifying, with the proceeds going to a charitable institution. As a result, a large portion of the big crowd consisted of the "fat and wealthy" of South street.

COLONIAL THEATRE—All the trimmings in "Ziegfeld Follies" were revealed in full flower at the Colonial Theatre last evening by the large audience which filled the Colonial from pit to dome every time when the last scene of the engagement was started. The beautifully well-liked were those features and parts of the Shakespeare Tercentenary celebration.

HOLLIS ST. THEATRE—Miss Laura Hope Crews, who is now presented by Sir Herbert Tree, who is now presenting at the Hollis Theatre his revival of "Henry VIII," is more than the equal of Mrs. Pana to Sir Herbert's fortunes. Miss Crews is not Shakespeare's "Queen Mary Wives of Windsor," but she has arrived in Boston yesterday and between rehearsals this morning

WALDRON'S CASINO—"The Rose land Girls" are at Waldron's Casino all this week. The company consists of a good line of comedians, singers and dancers, with several high-class vaudeville specialties, including a Land and Water selection of feminine charms. The revue has been staged in a "different" Dance Craze Sensation," far from the time the curtain rises on the first act to the moment it descends on the second and closing act it never falters in its mad whirl. There are dances of every kind and variety, from the classical to the modern.

SHUBERT THEATRE—The performance of Jacobi's "Czar Soldier Boy," the new German comic opera, which opened at the Shubert last night, will be reviewed in detail in Wednesday's AMERICAN by F. J. McIsaac.

BARS ACTRESSES IN HUGHES ALLIANCE

By International News Service.

New York, Oct. 24.—William Faversham has directed that Henrietta Crossman and Hilda Spong, refraining with him in the Booth Theatre for Bernard Shaw's comedy, "Getting Married," make no campaign speeches.

Miss Crossman and Miss Spong were booked for several political orations by the women's Hughes Alliance, but Faversham decided they ought to be too busy with rehearsals to try to help save the country from another Wilson term.

Aged Evangelist 104.

Washington, Oct. 24.—The Rev. M. E. Banks, an evangelist, 104 years old, delivered a sermon at the fifty-fourth annual reunion of former slaves and their masters, in progress at the Cosmopolitan Baptist Church.

GRAND OPERA PLEASES BIG AUDIENCE

The Aborn English Grand Opera Company is back in Boston with a more exhilirating repertoire than ever and seems to be known with a first night presentation of "The Jewels of the Madonna" to a large and fashionable audience at the Opera House last night. The production that would have done credit to a higher-priced organization. Director Milton and Sargent Aborn have given the company a setting that it is within the range of possibilities to present highclass opera in Opera House, without sacrificing artistic and musical effects.

The Opera House, in its remodeled interior, affords a more advantageous setting naturally than the Boston Theatre, with the advantage. The heavy reception given from every part of the house showed a most appreciative audience and a successful engagement for the entire Aborn series.

ATTRACTIVE LIST OF STARS.

The Majestic have secured an attractive list of stars. Last night Hilliam Sayers made a distinct hit in the role of Mallella, the crippled hero with Hassard, the willful and spoiled girl around whom the interesting story revolves. The role of Gaspare was enacted with splendid effect by Mr. Sayers, who sang his lines with much effect and whose acting was sincere and natural. As a result, a large portion of the big crowd consisted of the "fat and wealthy" of South street.

COLONIAL THEATRE—All the trimmings in "Ziegfeld Follies" were revealed in full flower at the Colonial Theatre last evening by the large audience which filled the Colonial from pit to dome every time when the last scene of the engagement was started. Coming Events

MAJESTIC THEATRE—The Majestic Theatre will open its regular season next Monday evening, October 30, with Miss Anna Held in a new musical production, presented by Messrs. Shubert, entitled "Follow Me." The music is by Leo Asher and Sigmund Romberg, with special musical numbers by Miss Helen Trix, Alfred Hyman, Harry Clerney and Gus Edwards.

PARK SQUARE THEATRE—Seats will go on sale tomorrow morning for the opening week beginning next Monday of "The House of Mirth" at the Park Square Theatre. After a run of last season in New York, its long and successful career has been duplicated in the five cities visited thus far this season, Philadelphia and Baltimore.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE—Boston will see a great Shakespearean treat at the Hollis Street Theatre next week, when Sir Herbert Tree makes a revival of "The Merry Wives of Windsor," as he did in New York last Spring, following the run of "King Henry VIII," which now holds the stage at the Hollis.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE—At the Plymouth Theatre next week the attraction will be Marie Tempest, who is said to have as a starring vehicle the most delicious comedy in which she has appeared in several seasons. The title is "A Lady's Name," from the pen of Cecil Harcourt, author of "A Pair of Silk Stockings."

BOSTON THEATRE—One hour and a quarter of the very best of Chaplin, the funniest man alive and the most salaried comedian in the world, is offered at the Boston Theatre this week in Charlie Chaplin's new film, "A Night in the Show." Chaplin appears first as a poor tramp, strolling along a country lane in search of work, mashing his nails and using a tin can for a finger bowl. He falls to love with a girl far above him in station, and when he loses to a hated rival Chaplin is heart-broken. Yet he is cheerful in his sorrow that instead of tears the audience bursts into roars of laughter. "Grant, the Follies Reporter," a stirring detective thriller, is also shown, as well as the latest episode of "The Yellow Menace," with Edward Stevens and Margaret Gale, and the Boston Theatre Topical Weekly shows the very latest world events in motion pictures. The vaudeville includes Julia Curtiss, the mimic; Fisher and Rockaway, in the act full of good singing and clean fun; Tierney and Franklin in funny songs and dances; Orr and DeCosta, the singers and composers of "Little Grey Mother," and a score of other song hits, and Claire and Atwood, the comic-the-bump comedians.

DANCING HIT FEATURE AT KEITH'S

La Argentina, the graceful interpreter of the dances of Aragon and Castile, and considered one of the best Spanish dancers, scored a notable hit in her initial appearance as one of the triple headliners which are featured at B. F. Keith's Theatre this week.

The other headliners are Cecil Cunningham and Edward Arden. Cecil Cunningham, comedienne extraordinaire, has the distinction of presenting a one-person comic opera. In doing so she is as versatile as she is statuesque.

The four Comedy Four vocalists and humorists, bring a kitchen scene from a French restaurant, with a lot of fun and several new songs.

Evelyn Blanchard brings Edward Arden in the dramatic comedy, "Closed Quarters," in which Mr. Arden, as private secretary to "Dicky" Brief, defends his friend's escapades, others who contribute to the list of entertainers are Emily Francis Hooper and Herbert Hartley in song and dance; Henry Regal and David Sender, talking and balancing act; Santley and Norton, new songs, and the three Steindel Brothers, musical recital.

GLOBE THEATRE—Sir Herbert Tree, the English actor-knight, made his first appearance as a screen star in Boston at the Orpheum Theatre yesterday in a photo drama entitled, "Her Folks at Home." He proved his remarkable versatility and artistry in the role of a Yankee farmer. Other of the acts in the surrounding bill of vaudeville is that of Harry Rendell and company in a musical comedy offering, "Beebers' Sweethearts" with eight people, six pretty girls and two comedians. The bill includes Barnes and Robinson, two "tiny tots" who present moments from musical comedies; Harry Sydell, "nut" comedian; Trowella, vertriloquist; Sinclair and Capman, engaging young women, who sing and dance; Dunbar, Banyard and Dunbar, acrobats and acrobats, and the Three Robins.

PARK THEATRE—Heading the bill, William A. Brady's Double Bill this week at the Park Theatre is Gail Kane in "The Scarlet Oath," and in the play she is seen in the dual role of two sisters, which gives her an opportunity to display her talents. The story carries one rapidly from one continent to another with thrills in every foot of the way. The production is in five acts and is far superior to any production ever played at the Park Theatre. Max Figman in "The Ghost of a Chance" is a scream from start to finish.

Plays That Remain

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE—Sir Herbert Tree entered upon the second week of his presentation of the Shakespearian drama, "King Henry VIII," at the Hollis Street Theatre last evening before an audience which apparently appreciated to the fullest extent the exceptional treat offered.

PARK SQUARE THEATRE—"Good Gracious Annabelle" began its final week at the Park Square Theatre last night. Coming here entirely from the prestige of having won honors elsewhere and with no talking of the purport of its story, it appeared, and overnight was stamped with the mark of success.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE—The fifth and last week of that intensely interesting drama, with its thrills and pathos, and delightful comedy moments, "The Silent Witness," began last evening. The splendid cast is headed by Henry Kolker and Mary Young.

COPLEY THEATRE—The Jewett Players, who have entertained so delightfully at the Copley Theatre, presented last night to an appreciative audience Henry Arthur Jones' drama, "The Dauntless Defence," a play that gives one an excellent opportunity to appreciate this well-known organization of players. The play involves the problem of what to do with the woman who sins. It is replete with tense scenes of dramatic interest and is exceptionally well cast. The second group of plays for the next four weeks will comprise "Jim the Penman," "Sweet Lavender," "Intimacy" and "A Pair of Spectacles."

BREEZY PLAY AT CASTLE SQUARE

The breezy play of "Texas," by J. Mauldin Feigl, has come to the Castle Square this week. This play is more than breezy, it is almost a cyclone at times, and the dust from the dry plains seem to fly over the distant, painted prairies.

The scene of the drama is laid not far from Mexico, and several half-breeds help to make an atmosphere that might well be recognised by the home-coming Dandy Fifth. A rattler five feet long is shot in the first act, and the talk has to do with cattle stealing and horse thieves.

Pistols and revolvers are handled with thrilling frequency, and a troop of cowpunchers keep the fun and noise going.

There were dark-skinned villians, heroines in buckskin leggings under riding habits, and a monacled English lord with money, to help plot against the hero, "Freshwater Jack."

WILBUR THEATRE—At the Wilbur Theatre last night "Very Good Eddie" began its eleventh week in Boston, and judging from the continued big attendance this piece could duplicate its season's run in New York. But there are only a few more weeks remaining of this smart and vivacious musical comedy in Boston.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

When Mixed with Sulphur It Brings Back Its Beautiful Lustre at Once.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Advertisement.

AND BABY BURKE, TOO, HAS RED HAIR

Miss Billie Burke, famous actress, who is the mother of a red-haired baby daughter whom she has named Gloria.

By International News Service.

New York, Oct. 24.—A tiny edition of Billy Burke, the famous actress, was ushered into the world in the Hotel Ansonia. Reports today state both mother and daughter are progressing favorably.

Miss Burke is the wife of Florenz Ziegfeld, Jr., the noted theatrical manager.

Billie Burke and Mr. Ziegfeld were married quietly in Hoboken in April, 1914. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Enderfeld. So carefully were the arrangements for the ceremony made that no one outside the parents of the principals knew of it for several days.

The baby's hair is also red; that is to say, that the tiny head of the baby is adorned with floss of the same color as the lustrous tresses of her mother.

By ADA PATTERSON.

Billie Burke and motherhood—the ideas seemed incongruous.

The personality of the most captivating ingenue on the English-speaking stage had caused the coinage of a word.

"Billieburkishness"—it signifies demure sauciness, maddening innocence, immature coquetry, immortal girlhood, irresistible grace, fatal wounds inflicted by angel eyes.

And yet it was a grave young matron who sat before me a few days ago in Billie Burke's chair on the lawn of Billie Burke's home near the Hudson River—a matron in the making, deep in expectancy and bathed in the afternoon sunshine of an early Autumn day.

Her round face was pale and unsmiling. She wore a spreading white frock with green touches about it. Her hair, autumnal as the frost-touched maples, lay soft and smooth about her face.

HER HOPES FOR HUMANITY.

Yet she had never looked more lovely to my eyes than she did in those grave moments, with all the significance of womanhood resting mystically upon her.

"If I have a son," she said, "I shall want him to be a serious-minded man who will help humanity."

I asked her whether, like Lady Constances Richardson, she would like her son, if she had one, to be a country gentleman. She dismissed the thought with a gentle shrug of the shoulders, saying:

"I can't imagine anything more stupid than an English country gentleman. No; I should like him to look like his father, and to be what his father would have been if he hadn't been a theatrical producer and manager.

"He meant to be a doctor. If he had been a doctor he would have been a good one. I should want my son to be the best type of American, which I think is the doctor or lawyer."

"Also suppose it is a girl?"

"Ah! If it is a girl I have in mind exactly the type I should like her to be. Some of my best friends are English girls. I have always admired that type. They are gentle. I think gentleness is the most attractive trait in woman. They have superb poise and perfect manners. They are considerate to their elders.

"Here the girls are neither gentle nor poised. Nor have they good manners or consideration for their elders. For that reason my daughter, if I have one, shall be educated, in part at least, in England. I don't like the schools here for girls."

OPPOSES "CO-ED" SCHOOLS.

"Not the co-educational kind!"

"No, no, no!" Billy Burke pursed her bewitching lips and shook her finger emphatically. "I would not let a little girl of mine run that risk. Yes, it is a risk, and I would guard her against it as carefully as from any other danger.

"In the first place, I wouldn't send her or her brothers——"

"Her brothers?" I interrupted breathlessly. "But how large a family are you—or—thinking of contributing to—or——"

"I should like about four," said Billie Burke resolutely; "two boys and two girls.

PAIN JUST LIKE A KNIFE THRUST

Chelsea Man Suffered Agony Until Relieved by the New Stomach Remedy.

Nature, like an army when attacked, has warnings and signals which should never go unheeded. When the stomach, liver or kidneys suffer slight derangements they send out their hurry-call to be careful. Each has its warning note, which frequently takes the form of indigestion, dyspepsia, gas on the stomach, nervousness, sleeplessness, etc. Nine out of ten people ignore these first symptoms and wait until serious illness has laid them low before they seek relief.

Plant Juice, the new herbal stomach remedy, assists Nature, and will bring relief in practically all cases of a deranged stomach, liver or kidneys. Thousands of well known local people are testifying to the great benefit they have received after they had practically given up all hope of permanent relief.

One of the latest signed testimonials is that of Mr. Ament Latue, who lives at No. 7 Vale Street, Chelsea, Mass., and is employed in a large shoe factory of that town. He stated:

"I have been troubles for the past three years with my stomach and had indigestion and acid and rheumatism so badly that my limbs would stiffen up and I was in awful agony. I could not sleep at night on account of the pain, as the least move I made would be like a knife going through me. I had to stop work for two or three days at a time on account of the pain I suffered. I had tried all kinds of remedies and was under treatment for years, but my case was pronounced incurable, and I was told I could only get temporary relief. I read of a man who had exactly the same symptoms I did who was relieved by Plant Juice, and although very skeptical, I got a bottle of it to see what it would do for me. After taking three bottles I was entirely relieved, my digestion is perfect and I have not a touch of rheumatism. I am glad to give this public endorsement of Plant Juice, as it did wonders for me.

The Plant Juice Man is at The Drug Department of the Houghton & Dutton store, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

SUSPECT CONFESSES TO LURING CHILD TO DEATH WITH PENNY

been completed before the authorities were attempting to connect the prisoner with the similar murder of five-year-old Lillian Bailey of Holyoke a year ago.

The little Bailey girl was killed in the same manner and under much the same circumstances as the Kazsar girl. No trace of her murderer was ever discovered.

The police endeavored today to trace Ducharme's movements for the past year and discover whether he was in Holyoke at the time of the killing of little Lillian Bailey.

Ducharme, who is twenty-six, was arrested at his home on Boylston street, Easthampton, at the moment the Board of Aldermen of Holyoke was considering offering a reward for his capture.

His apprehension came after a day of relentless search in which citizens joined the police, headed by Mayor Coakley and District Attorney Joseph B. Ely.

LURED WITH PENNY.

Grilled by Eric Marshall Barnes and the district attorney, the man admitted he gave the girl a penny and lured her beneath the dark piazza of the vacant house in Depot street, but a short distance from her home. There he choked her and attacked her. He said he had been drinking, but recalled his act. He is a former State ward, well known about the town where he has once general store.

The arrest of Ducharme was accomplished on information of a man whose name for the present is withheld.

He told the officials he had seen the man talking with the girl. He was the last person except the murderer to see her alive.

The arrest was accomplished by Chief of Police George V. Cook of Easthampton and Sergeant Francis Wright and Inspector Edward Center of the Chicopee department.

As the officers approached him, Ducharme appeared confused. When told of their mission he denied any knowledge of the murder. He was taken to the Chicopee police station. Mayor Coakley and other city officials were present at the examination and heard the confession.

The little girl, the only child of Mr. and Mrs. John Kazsar, was waiting in the yard for the return of her father from work last Saturday night.

An hour later she was missed, and her mother, after a search of the neighborhood, called for help. A number of the neighbors responded. One of them stepped under the piazza of the vacant house in Depot street, to light his lantern, to protect him from the wind which was blowing briskly. As the flame leaped up, he saw tiny shoe and stocking lying near his feet.

DIES IN HOSPITAL.

Raising the lantern above his head he glanced around. In a corner lay the crumpled form of the child, it was still alive.

The little girl was taken to her parents' home. No. 105 Exchange street. Physicians worked over her at the Mercy Hospital, Springfield, where she died shortly after arrival.

When the report spread about the city that the murderer of the child had been discovered, citizens threatened to lynch him. Former Alderman Joseph Hutka argued with the leaders of this movement to allow the law to take its course. While the arguments were on the fire was being abandoned, the police decided to take no chances. An extra guard, it is said, was placed around the jail and in the building to prevent violence.

Until the man was found who gave the police the information that led to his arrest, Chief Cook and his men were not furnished them to work on the case by Mayor Kiz, a playmate of the victim.

Little Lucia could not tell much and she said only that a man, who she did not know, was playing with Leona late Saturday afternoon. They had walked down to the vacant house. She said both were later found. The child said that a man with a "stiff hat," and odd clothes came along and started to talk with Leona. But beyond that she did not seem to know anything. Pressed by the police for some more accurate description, and by her mother, the child could only state that the man seemed to her to be a "big."

SIMILAR CASE.

The similarity of the case in many ways reminds the present crime. Lillian Higgins was playing about her house when she disappeared. Her body was found at last night. She was missed and a search made. Its discovery led to the relief of the very tenement where she lived. Although a vigorous search was made, the police failed to find any trace of the perpetrator of the crime.

Extreme cunning must have been employed, the police asserted, by the man responsible, for the neighborhood about the Hegley home was a populous one, and many people were about at the time.

YOUNG SCHOOL GIRL ACCUSES REYNOLDS IN ABDUCTION CASE

night. And then I was taken to another home, way out in Winchester, where I was lonesome. I stayed there for some days, but there, also, every thing was all right.

WANTED TO GO HOME.

I waited for days. And I cried myself to sleep. I thought about mother, and how she was missing me, and how I was trying to get her back. I wondered what she would do without her oldest daughter. If—I should never see home again. And I also thought of my little sister, and my brother. If they missed me, and were sorry. And then—they came. And I—I can't stop. I did not look—that's all I guess, except that I am glad to be home with mother, and never again, so long as I live, will I be as foolish as I was for this time, it was a happy ending.

Reynolds was arraigned in the Municipal Court before Judge Creed today and on request of his attorney the case was continued till October 31.

Reynolds is a married man and lives with his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Dodson, Reynolds told the story of meeting the girl and protecting her when she claimed she had been horsewhipped at home and was forced to leave.

Reynolds also claims he was introduced to the girl by Mrs. Royer as her sister, and during a moment's absence of the mother the girl told him he had been deceived and that Mrs. Royer was her mother.

INTRODUCED BY MRS. ROYER.

Reynolds told an AMERICAN reporter the following story of his meeting the girl and his action until the girl was taken from the Winchester house. He said:

I have known Mrs. Royer for several years, and a short time ago, while visiting the house, she introduced me to Mildred as her sister.

Following the introduction the mother left the room in which I was seated with the girl and her grandfather. The girl appeared very much interested in her study books, but in her conversation told me that I had been deceived, as she was the daughter of Mrs. Royer and not a sister.

She told me she had been horsewhipped by her mother, and her mother was willing she should leave the house. I sympathized with her and said I would do what I could to help her, and also told her that if she was put out of the house by her mother to come to my house.

PROMISED ASSISTANCE.

I then told my friend, Charles W. Dodson, about the girl's case, and he became interested and promised to assist me in helping the girl.

I also told my wife and she agreed with me that we should try to help the girl.

Wednesday I was advised and she told me she could stand it no longer at home and was going to leave. I hired a room for her on Boylston street and she stayed there that night.

The following Thursday morning I took her to the waiting room of Young's Hotel and introduced her to Mr. Dodson, and she told the same story to him.

He then took her to his home in Winchester. I did not go with her. It was our purpose to have her remain at Dodson's home until I could see if I could settle differences with her mother.

DENIES BUYING JEWELRY.

Reynolds then denied statements alleged to have been made by J. Frank Chase, secretary of the Watch and Ward Society, that he had ever bought any presents of jewelry and finery, or had ever written or received any letter from the girl. He also denied ever having ridden in an automobile with the girl.

Mrs. Dodson stated that Mildred showed marks on her body, claiming she received them from a horsewhip in the hands of her mother.

Dodson said he had a daughter about fourteen years old, and unless he believed Mildred was being mistreated, he would not take her to his home as a companion for his daughter.

Mrs. Reynolds said: "My husband has possibly got into trouble by trying to do a good turn for the girl whom he is accused of abducting."

The Reynolds live on the lower flat of a three-apartment house at the foot of Acadia street, West Somerville, in a respectable neighborhood. Two children, one four and the other five years old, clung to Mrs. Reynolds' skirts while she talked.

DENIES ATTACK CHARGE.

The police say they were admitted to the Dodson home by Dodson, who had retired, and Mrs. Dodson later appeared and told the girl to dress. While waiting down stairs Sears told Mrs. Royer to go up and assist her daughter, according to the police, and she went up.

When Mrs. Royer and her daughter came from the floor above, it is claimed, Mrs. Royer accused Reynolds of attacking Mildred, and when Reynolds left, the daughter said, "Yes, you did," to which Reynolds replied: "Don't you remember, Mildred, that I only went as far as the reception room with you."

During the walk to the station the police say Mrs. Royer and Mildred denied any attack on the girl.

The police also claim that Mildred said Reynolds told her he earned $150 weekly, and that she refused to answer a question of Sears' as to whether or not she ever told a school companion that the man she was to marry earned $150 a week.

According to officials of the Watch and Ward Society the girl is unusually pretty, and is a student at the Roxbury High School, and it is alleged Reynolds lured the girl away in an automobile last Wednesday, after school had closed for the day.

U. S. AGENTS CHARGE CHAIN DIME FRAUD

Minneapolis, Oct. 24—Thousands of letters, each containing ten cents, are pouring into the postoffice daily from women in various parts of the country, who have joined in an "endless chain" scheme promoted by the "National Brokerage Exchange."

Federal agents are searching for offices of the "exchange," who are wanted for using the mails to defraud. A room in a local business block, to which all the letters are addressed, was suddenly vacated three weeks ago, the authorities say.

Joins Army to Fight in Europe

There are thousands of New Englanders in the Canadian army, either drilling in the trenches in Europe or waiting to be sent to the front, according to Lieutenant Alfred N. La Breque of the Canadian expeditionary forces, who was in Boston today on a furlough.

La Breque is a Boston newspaper man, and previous to his enlistment in the Canadian army five months ago was employed by the AMERICAN.

La Breque has been ordered "over seas" with the next Canadian contingent, which is expected to leave Qubec for London soon. He holds the distinction of being the only newspaperman in the outfit who is also a commissioned officer. La Breque earned his commission by diligent, hard work, and has also qualified as an instructor.

On the day that Lieutenant La Breque called to say goodby to his mother in Watertown, his brother, Eugene P. La Breque, who is a member of the hospital corps of the Fifth Massachusetts Regiment, arrived home from the border. It was the first time the brothers had seen each other for several months.

Miss Ryan, who has a host of Boston admirers, won by her refreshing performances in "The Fortune Hunter," "Brewster's Millions" and "Stop Thief," will devote her energies to persuading members of the stage to enroll as Red Cross members.

D BATTERY IS NOW ON ITS WAY FROM THE BORDER TO BOSTON

By BERT FORD.

El Paso, Tex., Oct. 24.—D Battery of the Second Battalion, First Massachusetts Field Artillery left Camp Pershing today for Boston. It expects to reach Salem, its home city, about November 1, and will parade there.

The happy men of D Battery had entrained before dusk. With the Salem battery on the first section went the guns of Batteries E and F and horses. Each battery will take home thirty-two horses. The balance were returned to the remount station. There was debate when the men were not permitted to select favorites.

E and F Batteries will travel in succeeding sections. Four men were left behind at the base hospital with minor illnesses. The Bay State squadron of cavalry, still eager for Georgia units to relieve them, have resumed maneuvers with the Eighth regulars.

No word about going home has been received by ambulance companies No. 1 and 2 or hospital company No. 2, but an investigation is being made of telegrams sent in connection with possible orders. It was directed by the War Department to determine whether there had been any attempt to solicit political aid.

The Eighth and Ninth Regiments and General Sweetser's brigade staff passed another day of conflicting rumors. First it was reported that the Georgia infantry had not left Georgia, and later an official report was made that two regiments had left and ought to reach El Paso Wednesday afternoon.

Both Massachusetts regiments are ready to entrain. No time will be lost after trains are cleaned and ventilated. There doesn't appear to be any doubt that the Eighth and Ninth will be rattling homeward before the end of the week.

Captain McCarthy's company of the Ninth had a huge pudding baked to present to Georgia soldiers, but they concluded there was so much doubt as to the existence of infantry units in that State that all hands pitched in and devoured the gift.

General Sweetser's review of the Eighth Regiment just before colors was spectacular. Lieutenant Colonel William H. Perry, retiring colonel, was in command. Major Barry's battalion of the Ninth was reviewed by Colonel Edward L. Logan.

In B Troop of the Cavalry, Corporal J. H. Taylor was promoted to sergeant, and Charles J. McEachern to corporal. H Company in the Ninth, Corporal John J. Shields to sergeant; Thomas F. Cartland, John T. O'Meara, Joseph J. Fitzgerald, Hiram Leach and Howard L. Connells to corporal; L Company, Ninth, Oscar L. Johnson, transferred to headquarters for special duty; A Company, Ninth, Corporal Jeremiah Shine to sergeant; John C. Roth to corporal; Lawrence J. Connery to corporal; I Company, Ninth, Corporal James H. Drummond to sergeant, Francis E. A. Hayes and Warren E. Clark to corporals.

Charlestown to Honor the Fifth.

Residents of Charlestown have completed plans for a mammoth reception to be given to the three local companies of the Fifth Regiment, which returned to the district on Saturday morning.

The celebration will be held Wednesday evening in the Charlestown High School building in Monument square, under the auspices of the Charlestown School Centre, assisted by large committees of men and women of the district.

The speakers for the evening will include Congressman Peter F. Tague, who will represent the Federal government; Timothy J. Buckley of the Governor's Council, representing the State, Mayor James M. Curley, representing the city of Boston; General William H. Oakes, former commander of the Fifth, representing the citizens of Charlestown; Judges Charles S. Sullivan and Joseph E. Donovan of the Charlestown Municipal Court, representing the judiciary of which Colonel Stover is a member, and Councilor Daniel J. McDonald, who is Charlestown's representative in the Boston City Council.

All Waltham is expected to turn out tonight in honor of the members of Company F. There will be a reception and banquet. Representative John M. Gibbs is to be toastmaster and Mayor Eben J. Williams and others will deliver addresses. There will be a short parade in which fraternal, military and other organizations will take part.

The First Battalion Signal Troop, according to Adjutant-General Gardner Pearson, will arrive at the Huntington avenue yards late tonight, detraining tomorrow. Seventy-one horses, eight wagons, six wire carts and other equipment occupy two box cars of the troop train.

YOUTH FINED FOR DEFACING FENCE

Michael Dorso, nineteen, of Paris street, East Boston, was fined $15 for defacing a fence in Border street, East Boston, today, by Judge Brown in the East Boston Court. He was also fined $1 for chastering and loitering. He appealed.

TREVINO TO QUIT CHIHUAHUA

By L. V. B. RUCKER.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 24.—General Jacinto Trevino, lieutenants leader in northern Mexico is preparing to evacuate Chihuahua City, according to confidential reports to military headquarters here today.

While Villistas are in an all-day battle with the Carranzista troops yesterday, as now on the outskirts of the city proper, Trevino is reported working upon an accommodation.

All foreigners in the city have left for places of safety fearing to remain if Villista occupation of the city, as it seems he will.

A desperate fight between Villa's ferocious bandits and the remnants of Trevino's forces is imminent, say the reports.

Settle $100,000 Suit for 'Plot'

The $100,000 suit brought by Lois L. Higgins against the Boston author, against Grace Cabot Holbrook and Sidney T. Cook, also of Boston, on the grounds of malicious prosecution, was today settled out of court with a judgment for the plaintiff without costs.

Last April the plaintiff was discharged in the Roxbury Court, where she appeared, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses. It was the first suit against the two defendants, when she alleges endeavored to get accounts and manuscript from her client.

ACCUSED WOMAN FAINTS IN COURT

Sarah A. Smitherman of Almont street, Woodbine, pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault and battery on Nellie J. Woods of No. 84 Cross street, Winthrop, when arraigned today before Judge Brown in the East Boston Court, and the case was continued until October 31. Just before the case was called the Smitherman woman collapsed in the corridor of the court house and was treated by Dr. Hood L. Booth.

WOMEN CAN DRESS ON $115 A YEAR

That women spend 10 per cent of the $10,000,000 she expended annually on American gowns and can dress in that sum well, or $10 a week or less, is the belief of Mrs. Lucile Miller of Filene's personal service bureau.

She explained to detail how dress economy could be effected to the members of the Y. W. C. A. at a largely attended meeting.

"Many stuff goodness," she said, "depends on the ingenuity of women. I have in New York a girl friend who had fashioned wardrobe over $1,000 for two seasons. She was a slave to fads of the moment. Now she has $115, or nearly $10 a month, to spend and is absolutely independent. I have myself a wardrobe for two seasons that I shall wear outside the next month with again during the winter. A Panama hat I have worn for several seasons and a velour hat for Winter is also an economy. A navy or purple dress I have worn for the last two years. Follow the example of Lucy Page, who wore out a pair instead of lace on their underwear."

Mrs. Miller said that public schools should give instruction as to the spending a limited budget intelligently for domestic affairs.

Helen Keller Ill, Spine Is Strained

Miss Helen Keller and Mrs. J. A. Macy, her teacher, have been obliged to cancel all lecture engagements which they had arranged for the rest of the year. Both are ill, Mrs. Macy being confined to her bed with pleurisy, and Miss Keller suffering from a strained spine.

Dr. Joel A. Goldthwaite, who attended Miss Keller, stated that she would be unable to lecture for several months. She had intended to speak in New York next week before starting on a country wide lecture tour.

Embarrassing Hairs Can Be Quickly Removed

(Beauty Culture)

Hairs can be easily banished from the skin by this quick, painless method: Mix into a stiff paste some powdered delatone and water, spread on hairy surface and in 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be free from hair or blemish. Keeping in very stubborn growths, a second application may be necessary. To avoid disappointment, buy the delatone in original package.—Advertisement.

POLITICAL LEADERS IN DOUBT, BUT EXPECT CLOSE DECISION

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

New York, Oct. 24—Muddled as never before in American political history, the great national political campaign of 1916 entered its last two weeks today.

The outcome will be close. That is one of the certainties gleaned from conversation with the men who manage the fight in the two big headquarters here. Naturally each claims victory. But in private conversation, they assert that for the first time in the history of the country "unbranded" voters of the country actually hold the decision in their hands.

Former Justice Charles E. Hughes, Republican nominee, has left nothing to chance in the campaign. He will keep busy from now until the curtain rolls down on the very eve of the election. Personally he is supremely confident. He is certain that he will win. His argument, as submitted to the very few persons who are in his confidence, runs about as follows:

"BUT WE WILL WIN."

"The country is Republican. The fight this year is between only two parties. The popular drift may be toward Wilson, and this is admitted by all Republicans who are cognizant of the entire situation, but it will not be sufficient to change the result. The Republican electors will be in a majority, and they will win in the so-called pivotal States by small—possibly extremely small—pluralities, but they will win."

Over at Shadow Lawn President Wilson, with the confidential predictions of his closest political advisers before him, maintains a quiet equanimity. He believes that the "Wilson lucky star" still is in the ascendancy. He has been convinced for weeks that Charles Evans Hughes "is sent us out of war" and "let well enough alone," will be effective on the men who will decide.

And he is convinced that while he will very likely lose certain States that under ordinary circumstances he could count on—and one of these may be his home State—he will pull such support from the Republican strongholds as to absolutely insure his re-election.

REGRETS BY BOTH.

Swinging down the homestretch it was today even emphatically more apparent that political opinion is still far from crystalizing. Most of the East seems certainly Republican. The Democrats admit that they made a factional error in swinging their heavy artillery away from the old-time "Wall Street strongholds."

On the other hand, the Republicans say that they were also in error, and that instead of following out the plans conceived before the conventions and making a straight-out fight along tariff lines, they have been led into a situation which endangers their success in the sections where they should be strongest.

Because of the admitted swing toward President Wilson and the impossibility of determining whether it is as strong as it is on surface, the Republican leaders at headquarters here are chary over making definite predictions regarding individual States. They admitted today that doubtful States were the largest in the history of the nation. And as was natural, they insisted, with pad and pencil, that they could show how this situation must benefit them.

FAVORS PRESIDENT.

From the standpoint of impartial onlookers the situation today favors President Wilson. He will enter the lists on election day many votes stronger than his party. He will have a very strong support from the Bull Moose who are donning for a President the initial time. He will have the advantage of the office-holding class, and this despite the fact there is a well defined opposition in many communities to his selections, especially in the South, where the majority of presidential appointees have been far from party wheel-horses.

The great spy of the vote of the Women of the West is almost certain to be cast for him because of the stand he has taken on the question of the liquor traffic. And organized labor, probably for the first time since the palmy days of the Knights of Labor were all powerful, will cast the majority of its votes for the Democratic national ticket.

In addition, the Democracy today is aiding the most of the claim that abroad, where all Europe is "in flames," the defeat of the President will be misinterpreted and there will be a distinct change in the attitude of the various powers towards this country and its diplomacy.

I'D JUST sat down.

TO WRITE something,

TO WORK on.

IT WAS going to be good.

"I'M DOWNSTAIRS.

REFERENDUM AND CONVENTION ARE URGED BY MANSFIELD

Frederick W. Mansfield, Democratic candidate for Governor, spoke at a large noonday rally at Mead-Morrison's factory in East Boston today. Mr. Mansfield spoke on the initiative and referendum and also advocated the constitutional convention.

He said in part:

"When representatives forget their pledges, repudiate their party platform and act altogether in a high-handed and arbitrary fashion, disregarding the wishes of their constituents, some device should be found which, while retaining our present form of government, yet brings it as near to the people as the circumstances will permit.

MEANS RULE BY PEOPLE.

"The only scientific device which will accomplish this purpose is the initiative and referendum. At present, if a bill is rejected by the lawmakers, it is impossible to have it enacted into law even though the people themselves may wish it done. A party may include in its platform a plank which is intended merely to catch votes and afterwards may repudiate that plank. This was done by the Republican party, which included in its platform last year the eight-hour day for paper workers, and which, when the bill came up, overwhelmingly defeated it. Under the initiative and referendum a certain reasonable percentage of the voters by signing a petition may procure the placing upon the ballot of any law in which they are interested.

"I am heartily in favor of this legislation, and I believe that the initiative and referendum is a cure for most of the government ills that now exist.

URGES CONVENTION.

"The Democratic party platform this year contains a plank which advocates the constitutional convention. It is sixty-three years since a constitutional convention was held in Massachusetts and at that time the recommendations of the delegates were rejected by the people. So many changes have come in the last half-century that it would seem advisable at the present time to call another constitutional convention.

"At a constitutional convention all suggestions could be considered at the same time and reported back to the people by the delegates, for the people themselves to accept or reject at the polls. The Democratic party is in favor of this policy and I urge upon you the importance of voting 'Yes' on the question of having a constitutional convention."

HOOD RIVER APPLE CROP A GREAT ONE

Hood River, Ore., Oct. 24—The Hood River apple crop will exceed preharvest estimates by 100,000 boxes, and for the first time in the history of the valley the tonnage this year will exceed the 1,000,000 box figure. The brilliant sunshine and cold frosty nights have caused all varieties of apple to mature simultaneously, and never in the valley's history has the need for pickers been so acute.

SAYS G. O. P. COUNTS ON GERMAN VOTE

New York, Oct. 24.—In a discussion of "The Issues of the Campaign" last night at the Yale Club, under the auspices of the Yale Civic Service League, Federal Attorney George W. Anderson, of Boston said:

"I talked recently with a member of the Republican National Committee who satisfied that if it wasn't for the chance of getting every hyphenated German vote the Republicans wouldn't have a ghost of a show."

MANY HURT IN NEW CANAAN COLLISION

New Canaan, Conn., Oct. 24—In a head-on collision between a freight train and the regular New Canaan branch electric train, at 6:05 a. m. today, Theodore Saunders was seriously injured, and many so badly hurt as to require medical attention. Neither train left the rails.

The modern 15-acre plant pictured above stands back of every Crawford Range. And because they are made in the best factory of its kind in the world, Crawford Ranges can't help being the best.

Crawford Ranges

The Woman who owns a Crawford cooks with the World's Best Range

Buying a Range is like buying a diamond. It depends on the stove—it depends on the stone.

No Range can be too good. Buying the best Range is a duty—a duty to your home—to yourself—to your family.

The Range burns the coal and cooks the food. Coal costs money. Perfectly cooked food provides health.

The Range that uses less coal—and through scientific construction cooks perfectly and most easily—is the Range to buy—the Range to own.

Imitating the Crawford Range

The greatest proof of Crawford Range leadership is the imitation of its unique features. There are certain Crawford distinctions that are embodied in nearly every other Range upon the market.

The Crawford has always led in improvements. Thanks to Crawford patents, the most important of these cannot be imitated.

That wonderful Crawford Single Damper which with one movement controls the fire and the oven cannot be found in any other Range on the market.

Twenty Crawford Advantages

On the inside of a Crawford Range as well as on the outside you will find reasons why Crawford Ranges excel.

The Crawford embodies more invention and a closer scientific construction than other Ranges. Your eyes and your common sense will appreciate its advantages at once.

You simply cannot be a poor cook with a Crawford. It does the thinking for you.

And its low coal consumption and its perfect system of heat-distribution also make the Crawford the most economical Range.

A Crawford saves and satisfies—always.

"Why I Sell Crawford Ranges!"

Any Crawford Dealer will tell you why he is proud to sell Crawford Ranges. And he has good reason to be proud. He is selling the World's best Range—and can prove it—easily—surely—without argument.

If you have inspected all the other Ranges in town you will quickly forget them when you see a Crawford.

You'll buy a Crawford. You can't help it. The Dealer will show it to you—and the Crawford will sell itself.

The patented Single Damper—the scientific flue system—the labor-saving double Ash Hods—and the many other Crawford conveniences will prove irresistible.

Our Pride in the Crawford Plant

The Crawford is made in the world's greatest stove plant. Not greatest in size—but greatest in invention, efficiency and system that make possible the best Range in the world.

It is a matter of record that the leading stove men come to Watertown, Mass., to see our plant—and go away convinced that ours is the finest equipped stove plant in existence.

The Crawford Range is made with the utmost care. And the half century of skill and experience behind it and in it give the Crawford a national reputation that even our competitors admit.

The Crawford Range as an Investment

The Crawford Range is a life-time investment. Thousands of women who pride themselves on their cooking think the Crawford simply cannot be improved.

However, we are our own severest critics. If the best can be bettered we will do it. For the Crawford ideal is never really satisfied.

To improve—to build still better—to add more and more to its wonderful supremacy—is our constant aim.

Yet the fact remains: Today's Crawford Range seems as near perfect as is humanly possible.

And one thing is certain. When you buy your Crawford you are buying a range that has never yet been equalled—a Range that is a life-time investment—for you and for your children.

Gas ovens if desired; and (single) or elevated (double).

Visit your Crawford Dealer. He will give you the twenty reasons why he sells the Crawford. Every reason he gives you will be an added reason for you to own one.

BOSTON SLOW TO JOIN RED CROSS

In spite of the strenuous two weeks' campaign conducted in Greater Boston by the Red Cross membership campaign committee, disappointment is felt that Boston has made such a poor showing, in comparison with cities like New York.

The campaign work ceases tomorrow, although it will be at least three or four weeks before returns at headquarters show just what has been done.

C. H. Nutter, executive secretary, expressed his disappointment that Boston has failed to respond more readily to the enthusiasm of this campaign. "Boston has done well," he said, "but not as well as a metropolis of this size should. There is no reason for the city's being so low except that it is the Boston way."

Today is the last day of the organization work and the meetings are going along in good style. Benjamin Joy today addressed the heads of the Boston Elevated Railway, organizing them into a Red Cross membership. The heads of the Boston Consolidated Gas Company came into line through Mr. Nutter, who addressed their meeting.

Stanley Morgan of the Washington organization will speak in Winthrop tonight, and George H. Fonken, also of Washington, will do organization work in Waltham. H. G. Carroll will complete the organization plans in Cohasset today.

The American Red Cross is campaigning for 1,000,000 new members, of which Greater Boston's share was set at 20,000.

Following the close of the preliminary work tomorrow, collections will be made and returns sent in by membership committees.

TROOPS' VOTES WILL COST $100 EACH

State Secretary Langtry has received information that probably only 200 Massachusetts soldiers will be on the Mexican border with the National Guard on election day, November 7. Of this number about fifty are legal voters. Arrangements have been made to collect the votes of the absentees, $5,000 having been appropriated. If the vote is taken it will cost the State an average of $100 for each vote.

QUINCY MAY GET STATE DRY DOCK

That the proposed purchase by the State of about 100 acres of land in Quincy and Braintree, near the plant of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation, foreshadows the transfer of the big dry dock from Boston to Quincy Point is the gossip both in Quincy and in Boston political circles today.

It is reported that a Professor Ripley of New York was engaged by the State to investigate the Boston dry dock site, after the collapse of the cofferdam, and that his report points out some glaring defects in the Boston site.

Work on the dry dock has been suspended since the cofferdam gave way.

RIPLEY REPORT FILED.

Chairman John N. Cole of the Waterways and Land Commission admitted today that Professor Ripley has filed a report on the Boston site. He refused to divulge the nature of the report at this time, saying it would be made public later.

Jesse H. Baxter of the Waterways and Land Commission denied that the commission has considered the removal of the dry dock from South Boston to Quincy.

Chairman Cole, however, refused to confirm or deny the report.

At the offices of Holbrook, Cabot & Rollins, the drydock contractors, this statement was authorized:

ARCHITECTS' STATEMENT.

"The firm of Holbrook, Cabot & Rollins has a contract for building the drydock in Boston Harbor. We have heard of no negotiations for the transfer to any other site and we doubtlessly would have been consulted in the matter."

Joseph A. Conry, when a member of the Port Board, had opposed the awarding of the contract until adequate borings had been made to determine the nature of the natural foundation. He has always maintained that the contract should not have been awarded.

A portion of the land to be taken by the State at Quincy will be leased to the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation. In the original proceedings it was the aim of the corporation to have the dry dock at Quincy.

MAMMA! GIVE A CASCARET QUICK, LOOK AT TONGUE

Don't you see your child is bilious, feverish, sick, constipated?

Relieve little stomach, liver and bowels with candy cathartic.

Listless, peevish, feverish, drooping. Little stomach sick, breath sour and tongue coated. Mamma, you must act now or your little one will be real sick soon. Get a 10-cent box of Cascarets at the drug store, give a whole tablet any time. Cascarets are harmless and children love this candy cathartic, which stimulates the little liver, cleans the thirty feet of tender bowels and sweetens the poor, sick stomach in a few hours.

Mothers know that Cascarets act and act thoroughly and that they cure the little folks right up. Cascarets are best laxative for men, women and children. They never gripe or sicken. Advertisement.

Nervous Periodical Headaches

This trouble commonly called "sick headache, is said to be due to the retention of urea in the system. After it is stated that a poor condition of the blood is a cause of these headaches, or that it is a nervous condition, and in certain cases, no doubt this is true.

Where treatment is demanded, it is more for the pain than anything else, and Dr. A. F. Schellschmidt of Louisville, has found anti-ammonia tablets to give prompt and satisfactory relief. Rest should be insisted upon, he says, and the patient should go to bed, darken the room, and all the attendants and family should be as quiet as possible. An enema will sometimes shorten the attack. The bowels should be kept open with "Acridol"; a hot bath and a thorough rub-down with a coarse towel, often give grateful relief. Two anti-kamnia tablets when the first signs appear, will usually prevent the attack. During an attack, one tablet every hour or two will shorten the attack and relieve the nasal nausea and vomiting. These tablets may be obtained at all druggists. Ask for A-K Tablets. They are also prescribed for nervous headaches, neuralgia and all pains.

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS

NO CHAMPION IN HISTORY EVER DREW THE COLOR LINE AGAINST A GREENBACK

Bettors Aboard Dillon Is Pick Over Levinsky

By RINGSIDE.

The two undisputed stars of the heavy-middleweight division, or light-heavyweight class, which ever way one wishes to pair them, Jack Dillon, the Indianapolis Thunderbolt, and Battling Levinsky, the Connecticut Sheriff, clash in the main event on the Armory A. A. card at the Arena tonight.

New York has had it for the past week that Tex Rickard, the noted promoter, will be on hand for the combat and book the winner for a battle with Jess Willard in Madison Square Garden in late November. Rickard has always dealt in big things since he began taking an occasional flyer in the fistic market. Not to date has the former Westerner been identified with a flivver, receipts considered.

There's no disputing the all-round battling abilities of Dillon and Levinsky, but have yet to rent all rivals of like poundage as well as sunk the bulk of the white hopes. Even if Willard shows in prime again, the champion will not be lower than 250. Maybe he will be as high as 270.

NOT QUITE BIG ENOUGH.

So Dillon and Levinsky, fair-sized giants themselves, would be bound to be outweighed from eighty to one hundred pounds by Big Jess, and following the way the heavyweight king cooked up Frank Moran, who came in weighing some 230 pounds for the long "freak" contest at the Garden, Rickard will be the wonder of wonders if he goes through with the match and puts it over big.

However, that's all another story. It's tonight's fight that interests the boxing fans are interested in. On paper, it smacks of being a rousing fine combat. Yes, it's an old one number, one even more antiquee than the British-Lewis skit, but it has always pleased, and as it has never experienced an emphatic ending, results far from conclusive.

In their several battles in the Middle West Dillon generally landed right side up. May 29, 1914, in Indianapolis, battling on the eve of the big motor races on the speedway in that city, Dillon and Levinsky traveled ten fast rounds. It went down as a no decision affair. But Dillon had a little something on Levinsky.

DILLON WON AT BUTTE.

April 17, in the same year, they went twelve rounds at Butte, Mont., with Dillon the winner. In 1915 they went it again in the West, but not to an even thing. Then, they clashed in Baltimore last Spring. That was the lone River they tilted and, B., there was a reason.

Receipts fell short of the guarantees, and while Levinsky was generally credited with having battled all the way, Dillon laid back, only giving the public what it paid for.

Local fans will at last see Levinsky called upon to extend himself, Jimmy Ferguson, Tom Cowler, Al Reich and Gunboat Smith all proved that little else but setups, for the Hatter. Though giving away considerable weight all four easily had little trouble rushing up wide leads on those human cars.

Tonight though Levinsky meets an all-round fighting machine who, while of practically equal poundage in no ways had a little something on him. While not for all the Hatter's ringcraft, performances, which the wise boys in pugdom have always allowed to run for Old Hickory.

MORGAN SWEET ON DAY.

Danny Morgan generally gets the "break" in Boston and he gives out roiser.

ARMORY A. A. PROGRAM.

Jack Dillon of Indianapolis, vs. Battling Levinsky of New York, 12 rounds, catchweights. Referee—Larry Conley.

George Alger of Cambridge, vs. Frank Molea of Pawtucket, 8 rounds.

Jimmy Gray of Revere, and opponent not yet named, 6 rounds.

Young Buckley of Cambridge, vs. Young O'Brien of South Boston, 6 rounds.

Alternate referee—Maffitt Flaherty. Starting time—8 p. m.

Levinsky as the proper bet. He had Jack Britton signed a sure winner over Ted (Kid) Lewis and claims he beat Levinsky flatter to make it two straight for his stable and go over just as handily as the welterweight premier.

He that as it may, Dillon rated the betting choice in the day's early speculation. The Hooper hadn't been in Boston since winning from Frank Mantell back in April, 1911. Dillon looked mighty good that night, though truth it is he was just starting his march up the line.

The Indianapolis Thunderbolt has come through a positive riot in pugdom, and were he an outand-out heavyweight he would doubtless have beaten Jess Willard to a set in the ring row.

A wonderful boxer for a big fellow is Levinsky, classy and shifty, but it is Dillon's punch that has made his performances tonight the Connecticut Sheriff is at last going to fall off his great fusion winning streak.

CONLEY WILL RUN BOUT.

Manager Mish Murray of the Armory A. A. stable says the Larry Conley would referee the Dillon-Levinsky battle. The club's new official handled last week's Britton-Lewis bout in splendid style. Murray held out that Referee Conley's appointment and won the argument after a bitter battle.

Conley showed both Jimmie Johnston and Danny Morgan, and the impression left that he won't be objected to in the future by the New York boxing

George Alger, veteran Cambridge welterweight, who is now operating the Mechanic's gymnasium, meets Frank Molea of Pawtucket in the semi-final eight-round go. Young Nate Segal is on the sick list, so a new foe must be secured to meet Jimmy Gray. Jack Buckley and Young O'Brien clash in the curtain raiser.

BRAVES IN NEW TOUR

Stallings' Team to Go On Barnstorming Trip in South With Yankees Next Spring.

Arrangements have been practically completed for a joint exhibition tour next Spring by the Braves and the New York Highlanders on their way North from their South-ern training camps. The scheme came as a delightful surprise to baseball enthusiasts and will give in the interest in baseball in the places visited an opportunity to witness for the first time two major league clubs playing against each other.

Negotiations for such an exhibition tour were started two months ago by Business Manager Donovan of the Braves, who has the tour pretty practically lined up from start to finish, and who will go South in the course of a week or so to sign all contracts for the trip.

BUSINESS MEN BACK TOUR.

The boards of trade in the cities to be visited are interested in the proposed tour, and in a majority of cases the Chamber of Commerce has agreed to guarantee the players of the Braves and the Highlanders will visit the city under board of trade auspices.

The scheme has met with a ready response by the board of trade and similar organizations approached with the result that more cities are anxious to agree to the guarantee price required than can possibly be accommodated as it will be impracticable to book more than six or eight exhibitions games on the trip.

It has been found that the smaller places, such as that have only of ever entertained one major league club in the past, are the most enthusiastic over the plan as outlined by the Braves' management and for that reason some of the larger cities of the south have been passed over in favor of the smaller towns where every consideration will be given the players, it is said, the exhibition games, as planned, will draw like a circus.

PLANS FOR MANY GAMES.

The route is not fully complete, nor will it be until the Braves' business manager has been able to confer in person with some of the boards of trade and Chambers of Commerce appointed for the purpose. In a general way, however, it is reasonable to suppose that the Braves will be objected to in the future by the New York baseball

Georgia, Alabama, Florida, South Carolina and North Carolina, with possibly Tennessee and Kentucky, will be among the places visited en route.

It is planned to play the first of these games on Saturday, March 31, with the Braves and the Highlanders all but certain to be the contestants coming a week later. It is also possible that a Sunday exhibition game in Maryland will be arranged.

In addition to the joint tour by the Braves and the Highlanders up to the Atlantic coast it is altogether likely that a rookie team of Braves will be assembled by Manager Stallings for a week of exhibition games somewhat more inland, the "Miracle Man" feeling that the exhibition trip as planned, while it meets with his entire approval, will not afford sufficient practice for the substitutes who should themselves have the opportunity of playing a game a day, after leaving the training camp at Miami.

BOWLING

TONIGHT'S MATCHES.

Bank & Trust League—Eight matches on New Boston Alleys.

City Hall League—Four matches on New Boston Alleys.

Telephone Exchange League—Three matches on North Station Alleys.

United Shoe Machinery League—Eight matches on Littlefield's Alleys.

John P. Squire League—Three matches on North Station Alleys.

It was often been said that Paul Doehler is to bowling what Ty Cobb is to baseball and the more one thinks of the comparison the more true it seems to be.

Doehler is seldom, if ever, located with a losing team. He makes a winner. An average team, with Doehler in it, can hold its own in any organization.

Doehler is not alone a good bowler, a good worker and a good leader. He possesses that winning spirit which makes him a star in any game he undertakes. Doehler has added considerable to the league his nervousness has carried with him to the alleys as a result. He knows that if he shuts a little Doehler can make up the deficiency. He knows it, and that is generally does.

* * *

When Doehler was with Chauncy it meant through the City League like a whirlwind. Both of the City Leagues were so decisive it was a foregone conclusion Chauncy would land the pennant. Star Players, Murray, Murray and the South End aggregation did everything well.

* * *

This year he is with the Terminal five. They look good, but not like Chesterfoms. What is the result? Well, Terminal is leading the City League and is a real contender for the pennant, but a point back of the leaders. The City and Suburban are rushed one-two in bowling circles. Quite a record for Doehler surely!

* * *

Doehler's strength is borne out in the averages. He tops the City League with an average of 113, three seven points ahead of Archie Walsh, Terminal captain. He also leads the Suburban League with a 110.

Shawmut, which has yet to lose a point in the Bank & Trust League, bids fair to bring its record up to 30 straight when it rolls at the Quarries against Commonwealth tonight at the New Boston Alleys. The latter team doesn't seem to be any reason for American or Old Colony falling off any, but they do, five times each opponents.

American and Gold Colony are giving Shawmut plenty of cause to worry, for they have dropped but one point. Each has won 29 bowling games on the Bank & Trust League schedule:

PLAYERS' BODY TO FIGHT

Pres. Fultz of Fraternity Opens War on Magnates for Withholding Emblems from Red Sox.

New York, Oct. 24—Reports from American League headquarters to the effect that the members of the Boston Red Sox World's Champions and other players enrolled in the league are to be fined for participating in so-called "barn-storming" games after the close of the regular season, has brought forth a vigorous protest from the Baseball Players' Fraternity.

President H. H. Johnson of the American League gave it out in Chicago last week that the Red Sox players who played in the exhibition game at New Haven, Ct., Sunday, a week ago, would not get their championship emblems from the National Commission.

Other American League players, including Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker who indulged in so-called "barnstorming" contests at the close of the regular season, are to be dealt fines. It was stated by Johnston at the time he announced the punishment that had been meted out to the Red Sox.

President David L. Fultz states that the Fraternity cannot recognize the right of organized baseball to fine its members for such an alleged offense, and further pointed out that players were acting well within their legal rights in taking part in such games.

Tener Refuses to Discuss Fultz Talk

New York, Oct. 24—President John K. Tener of the National League, who is a member of the National Commission, states that the rule covering the Red Sox violation of the rule prohibiting "barnstorming" trips was clear.

"The code provides," said President Tener, "that the commission shall impose an 'adequate penalty' if a team violates this rule. Of course, the implication naturally is that the players will be fined, but I would rather have any statement concerning the fines come from Mr. Hermann, who is chairman of the commission.

"The players thoroughly understand the rule and no World's Series team has ever failed to dismissing any proposes to put a stop to practices such as the game in New Haven between the champion Red Sox and the semi-professional team they played there. I do not care to talk about Mr. Fultz's statement, as that is a matter which will have to be discussed by Chairman Hermann."

Mr. Tener stated that the commission would withhold the championship emblems from the Red Sox players. The twenty-six players were entitled to baseballs studded with diamonds. They were valued at about $100 each. Those gifts are paid for by the commission.

Big Changes in Series Prices Are to Be Sliced

Chicago, Oct. 24—B. B. Johnson, John K. Tener and August Herrmann, members of the National Commission, have expressed themselves in favor of making drastic changes in the rules governing the World's Series baseball games. Here are some of the changes contemplated:

Prices will be greatly reduced, probably 50 per cent. The number of games will be increased. Some provision may be made so that every player in the National and American Leagues will receive a portion of the receipts.

The National and American League managers, at their annual meetings in December will discuss a revision of the conditions and will instruct their presidents as to their wishes. The National Commission will then take action.

There will be no more grandstand seats sold at $3. It is the present intention of charging no more than $2 for the seats which sell ordinarily for seventy-five cents.

The bleacherites are not to be forgotten when the winners start in the big series hereafter.

The new schedule of prices will make it possible for them to seek their old places at a slight advance but what is more to the point—to find them.

Ban Johnson is responsible for this statement. He also backs the one to the effect that all of the conditions surrounding the playing of the series will be overhauled, that there will be a general revision.

President Tener of the National League stands back to back with the American League executive.

Chairman Herrmann of the National Commission likewise declared that the commission would go into the question thoroughly.

With the slash in prices, the division of the receipts will receive much consideration. Tener declares in favor of dividing the receipts among the players finishing in the first division.

His idea is that it will stimulate the interest of the players throughout the season and that they will strive to finish with the elect.

Herrmann would include all the players with a share when it goes to the greater share would go to the winners and the smaller to the team finishing last in the race.

LAST NIGHT IN THE RING.

New York, Oct. 24—Willie Astor, West Hoboken welterweight, was outpointed by Joe Lynch in a hard fought bout at the Olympic A. C. Lynch outweighed Astor by three pounds. Astor staggered Lynch in the last round with a right-hand uppercut.

New York, Oct. 24—Mel Coogan, Brooklyn lightweight, knocked out Joe Stacey in the sixth round at the Clermont A. C. Coogan weighed 131½ and Stacy 134.

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 24—Young O'Neil of Wood's Corner outpointed Johnny Dunn, colored of New York in ten rounds at the Lyceum A. C. Dunn's manager claims a South Boston win from Young Gibbs of Woonsocket in ten rounds. Al Nelson of Manchester, N. H., had matters all his own way with Joe Demaris of Woonsocket.

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 24—Walter Butler of Revere, Mass., substituting for Jim Stark of Cleveland, won from Jimmy Duffy by a technical knockout in the seventh round.

Milwaukee, Oct. 24—Australian advices state that Tom McCormick, Philadelphia heavyweight, knocked out Les O'Donnell in the tenth round at Ruher, and Art Macik, Oklahoma middleweight, got the decision over Fred Kay in twenty rounds at Melbourne.

LEAGUE IS TO TRY M'GRAW

President Tener States Sensational Charges of Giants' Manager to Be Aired December 12.

New York, Oct. 24—"The McGraw case will be handled by the board of directors of the National League when it meets here on the second Tuesday in December," stated President John K. Tener of the National League.

There will be no investigation held by Tener before that time, although the head of the league and President Hemstead of the New York club had a long talk with President Hempstead. He left, however, a short time before Tener arrived.

"I paid Mr. Hempstead a visit just as I have done many times before," said Mr. Tener. "We discussed matters pertaining to the past season. There was nothing significant about the talk."

President Hempstead, however, said in answer to a question by a reporter: "Why, yes. We have touched on the McGraw incident, but did not say much about the matter. As far as we are concerned the matter has been dropped."

Benevolent Gets New Mile Mark

Laurel, Md., Oct. 24—Oscar Lowlashin's imported gelding, Benevolent, was first home in the fifth race at the Laurel course at one mile, and in so doing defeated Flittergold and Capra in the fast time of 1:38 4-5, the best time of the meeting.

The card of specials in the third race, for two-year-olds at a mile, was a glorious surprise to the talent, as is was looked upon as the best thing of the day. However, Piranha was not to be denied and managed to get home a length in front of Artesia and Ed. Roche.

H. E. Carman put Queen of Paradise over in the sixth race at 3 to 1, beating Hurz Around by half a length, with the favorite, Sandhill, two lengths back.

The West Hoboken of Newark, who made a great bid for the U. S. F. A. championship last year, were unfortunate, being eliminated in the qualifying round in the Scottish-Americans at Newark, 3 goals to 2.

Ex-Manager Williams of the General Electrics is taking things easy these days, while his old team, under the management of Doug Johnson, is trying to make a record of defeats. This is not intended as a criticism of the manager, but somehow the team cannot get started, although it has the material.

Player MacIsaac, late of the St. George, who has been in training with the British army in Canada, is now on his way to the front. He won promotion in his regiment while training, and attributes the same to his knowledge of the game.

Manager Haldem of the Fore Rivers has been making every effort to strengthen his team for the national cup series. By present indications he is up against a stiff proposition, being scheduled to tackle the Lynn Hibs in the first round. Judging by the way the Hibs have been traveling this season, Manager Hogan has no cause to worry. Fore River section, however, would have been better satisfied had the draw been different.

The real work of the season starts today, when the [illegible] Indiana shift to the [illegible] stage.

FITZGERALD IS WILLING TO MEET LODGE

John F. Fitzgerald and Henry Cabot Lodge today were invited by the Wilson Progressive League to jointly discuss the issues of the campaign Thursday at the noon-day rally of the league in the headquarters on School street.

Mr. Fitzgerald said he welcomed the opportunity to meet Lodge on the same platform, and that he would accept the invitation.

Lodge has not responded.

The invitation was sent by Secretary "Joe" Larson of the Wilson Progressive League, who previously had rejected Mr. Fitzgerald's request to be allowed to address the regular noon-day rally.

HOPE LODGE ACCEPTS.

"Mr. Fitzgerald called a second time," said Larson, "and I told him that as this was a Wilson organization we could not permit him to set forth his own candidacy for the United States Senate against Mr. Lodge unless the latter was present to defend himself.

"I did say, however, that we had decided to invite both him and Lodge. If Mr. Lodge accepts the invitation we will hear them both. But if he declines to come or to send a representative, we will allow Mr. Fitzgerald to speak."

At the Fitzgerald headquarters it seemed to be the hope of those in charge that Lodge would enter the joint debate. Mr. Fitzgerald has charged the present Senator with being the representative of State street and Wall street rather than of the people, with seeking to revive the sectional issue in American politics, and he asks Lodge to defend his recent speech at Dedham, where he said that "four years more of Wilson would mean four more years of failure."

"I would like to ask Mr. Lodge if he wishes the people to understand that the Federal Reserve act, which emancipated the industrial and commercial interests of the United States, means failure," said Mr. Fitzgerald.

WHICH ARE FAILURES?

"I would like to ask Mr. Lodge if the Rural Credit act, which provides capital at fair rates of interest for the greater development of agriculture, means failure.

"I would like to ask him if the $75,000,000 which was passed for building good roads throughout the country, spells failure."

He says he would also like to ask Senator Lodge if the Child Labor law, the Adamson eight-hour law, the income tax and the numerous other achievements of the Wilson administration are failures, and which of them he will ask to have repealed if he is re-elected.

Secretary Alexander Bannwart of the Woodrow Wilson Independent League today requested the Cambridge police to investigate the authorship of an unsigned, anti-Wilson circular that is being circulated in the University City in evident violation of the law.

State laws require that all political matter shall be signed by the person responsible for circulating it. The anti-Wilson circulars contain no signature nor the address from which they were sent.

A batch of the circulars came to the home of Professor Lewis J. Johnson, who is an ardent Wilson supporter, and Professor Johnson promptly sent them to the league. They attack the Wilson record in Mexico.

PROMINENT SPEAKERS.

"It is not the subject matter of the circulars which we fear because thinking people realize that they are fictitious arguments," Mr. Bannwart said, "but the Hughes headquarters, backed by Wall street and the big corporations, are overflowing with money, and we fear that some eleventh-hour 'sensation' may be sprung that we will not have time to answer. We want to guard against that."

Augustus Thomas, the playright, author of "Arizona" and numerous other dramas, including "Rio Grande," which lately showed in Boston, will speak for Wilson at a special rally Saturday noon in Faneuil Hall. President Charles H. Jones of the Commonwealth Shoe & Leather Company, will preside, and John F. Moors of the Boston Finance Commission will be a speaker.

John H. Fahey, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, and Professor Johnson were the principal speakers at the Wilson Progressive League.

AWARDS $25,000 FOR LOSS OF BABY'S EYES

San Francisco, Oct. 24.—The nominal value of a baby's eye was fixed at $25,000 here by Judge Frank J. Murasky, in Superior Court, who gave judgment for that amount to the parents of Mary Rubio, one year old, against Mrs. Amalia Razzuoli, midwife. It was alleged that the woman failed to care for the baby's eyes properly at birth and now the child is blind.

"A pair of baby's eyes are priceless," said Judge Murasky. "No amount of money that this or any court could give, no matter how large the amount, would compensate for their loss."

SHOTS FOR MALDEN PROWLER SCARED BY WOMAN'S SCREAMS

Mrs. Lillian Wilton of No. 31 Clark street, Malden, believes she frightened away the same man last night who on two different occasions has been seen about her home.

Two nights ago a stranger was seen by a neighbor walking back and forth on the Wiltons' back porch. Only a few nights before that Mrs. Wilton aroused her husband when she heard somebody in the cellar. The husband investigated, and while he did not see anyone leave the cellar a neighbor says that he saw a man run out the cellar door and disappear.

SAW MAN IN YARD.

The climax to these nightly prowlings came last night when Mrs. Clark was taking in some clothes about 10:45 o'clock. She saw a man come into the back yard of the second house down Clark street, as the neighborhood is thickly settled and all manner of pants of the other houses frequently come through the yards, she thought nothing about it. The fellow then kept walking toward her and she soon saw that he was a stranger. She said to him:

"What do you want here?"

The fellow crouched down near the fence. Suddenly he stood up and hurried towards Mrs. Wilton.

She screamed.

A man walking on the next street ran through the yard to assist her, and seeing the stranger run out to Clark street he gave chase. Mrs. Wilton's husband, Ralph Wilton, had been asleep in the house. He ran to Clark street and opened fire on the fleeing man with a revolver. Three shots were fired.

NEIGHBORHOOD AROUSED.

In a few minutes the entire neighborhood was aroused and several men and boys searched the entire section, but failed to find any trace of the man.

"The same so near to me that I could have reached out and touched him," said Mrs. Wilton. "It was so dark I couldn't see his face, but he wore a cap pulled far down over his eyes. He had on a dark gray suit and the cap was of lighter color. He was tall and thin.

"I came home on the electric cars and got off at Salem and Clark streets. I did not see anybody following me. I stopped to take a look around, but I hung on the line before I left the house. I had taken off the hook of the line and was ready to go into the house when I saw the fellow. I think he is the same man who has been prowling about here and has been in our cellar. This house was robbed about a year ago, too. Perhaps he is the same fellow who did that work."

Miss Sheridan a Bride.

Robert E. Cunniff, special investigator for the Boston Finance Commission, and Miss Marion Frances Sheridan of No. 23 Cushing street, Cambridge, were married today in the John A. Sheridan, a brother of the bride, was best man.

MARKET ISSUES WEAK AFTER OPENING

After opening strong, with several stocks selling at the highest prices in history, the New York stock market weakened on heavy profit-taking sales and by noon nearly all stocks had assumed losses.

The most notable high record was attained by Bethlehem Steel, which advanced 44 points to 628, passing its record of 600 made only a year ago.

Second in interest was General Motors, which sold up 9 points to a record of 82, the highest price ever obtained for any stock excepting Northern Pacific, which was quoted at 1.600 in the spring of 1901.

Other high records were: American Beet Sugar 103 and 104, Inspiration 74, American Sugar 124½, reached its highest price since 1910.

The strength of Bethlehem and the other war stocks was based on reports of a big victory over the Turks in the Dardanelles, which will make the allies buy more war supplies in this country.

United States Steel's movement was typical of the whole list. This stock opened with a gain of ⅝ to 126⅛, then went off to 113¾, compared with yesterday's closing price of 125⅜.

Other important losses at noon were: Baldwin, Gulf & West Indies 1, Studebaker 1⅝, Martin Consolidated 1, preferred 2⅝, Republic Iron & Steel 1, Republic Iron & Steel 3, Colorado Fuel 1 and American Locomotive 3.

Railroads were quiet and irregular. Union Pacific advanced 1, Reading, ex-dividend, losing ½. Rock Island was strong, up 2 points. Another strong stock was Mexican Petroleum.

The Boston market was irregular at noon. Swift & Co. was weak, yielding 2 points to 151. Punta Alegre Sugar was strong, advancing 3. Copper stocks were strong, Calumet & Arizona moving up 1¼ and Copper Range 1.

STEEL PIERCED BY NEW BULLET

New York, Oct. 24.—Army officers who have observed the tests of the new armor-piercing bullet now in progress at the Sandy Hook proving grounds are enthusiastic over the results. The bullet is of only 30 calibre and can be fired from the regulation army sporting rifle. At a distance of fifty yards the projectile plowed through a sheet of steel three-quarters of an inch thick and then penetrated a silhouette target placed behind it on a steel plate. It is believed that one of the new bullets could be fired clean through from ten to twenty inches of building in a row.

The Republican Party and Mr. Hughes Should Repudiate Col. Roosevelt

COLONEL ROOSEVELT is quoted as having made the following statement in a recent speech:

"The war has been creeping nearer and nearer until it stares at us from just beyond our three-mile limit. * * * But the chief point is that the war has come so close to us that our country is no longer to be excused if it endures Mr. Wilson's futility or inaction."

Well, what does Colonel Roosevelt want?

Does he want Germany to prosecute her naval war just INSIDE our three-mile limit?

Or does he mean that we should assume a hostile attitude toward Germany because Germany carries on naval warfare according to the laws of nations and the colonel does not like those laws?

In October, 1914, Colonel Roosevelt declared, over his own signature, in the Outlook magazine, that the United States, of course, could do nothing about the invasion of Belgium. And in this month of October, 1916, Colonel Roosevelt is loudly declaring that the United States should have taken an armed stand against the German invasion of Belgium.

Perhaps a warrior whose hindsight is so much more bellicose than his foresight can easily persuade himself that making naval war outside of the three-mile limit is more of an offence than making naval war inside the three-mile limit—provided, of course, that Germany is the offender.

In sinking enemy ships and ships carrying military supplies to her enemy in the open sea and outside our three-mile limit Germany is exactly and absolutely complying with the settled and long-practiced law of nations.

Germany, in so sinking enemy vessels and cargoes, is not only complying with the law of nations, but, in giving warning and safeguarding crews and passengers, is strictly complying with THE LAWS OF SUBMARINE WARFARE set up by our own government.

Now, it is conceivable that these laws might be wrong, but it is not conceivable that we have any right to seek a quarrel with Germany for complying with those laws.

Neither have we any right to seek a quarrel with Germany for complying with the laws of nations because Germany has hurt England without breaking those laws.

That might be England's attitude, but it cannot be the attitude of neutrals interested only in the observance of international laws and the security of neutral rights.

The fact is that Colonel Roosevelt does not so much want to provoke war with Germany in support of American rights as he wants to provoke war with Germany to gratify his individual hate of Germans—chiefly of Germans who are also American citizens and who, as he believes, administered to him at Chicago the bitter pill of defeat.

The man's disappointed ambition and wounded vanity have obsessed him with a sort of Berserker rage against Germans, which makes him incapable of anything but fury—incapable even of telling the truth about his fellow-citizens.

If the Republican party wants to win this election it should repudiate Roosevelt and his outbursts of rage and spite.

If Mr. Hughes wants to be elected he should plainly state that he does not approve of Colonel Roosevelt's utterances.

If the Republican candidate permits the country to believe that he approves of Colonel Roosevelt's violent and unreasonable outbursts of hate and rage—a thousand times more unbecoming and indecent since Mr. Roosevelt was once President—then we suspect that the next President will not be the Republican candidate.

Thousands of American citizens who have been a good deal ashamed of Mr. Wilson's foreign policies are apt to decide that they would rather endure four years more of futility than to risk four years of an administration that might follow the advice of Colonel Roosevelt.

The country has once repudiated Colonel Roosevelt as a candidate for the presidency, and the Republican party has twice repudiated him in its national conventions.

Mr. Hughes and the Republican party will be strictly in line with former party action and with the sentiment recorded at the polls by a two-thirds adverse vote of the people in 1912 if they repudiate Colonel Roosevelt again.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

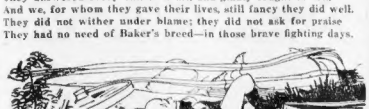
The Minute Men

(Secretary of War Baker announces solemnly that Washington's Revolutionary soldiers were just as bad characters as the Mexicans.)

AS in our long-gone schoolboy days it still gives us a thrill
To read about the Minute Men who fought at Bunker Hill.
The lads that starved all Winter long in snow-swept Valley Forge,
And marched forth in the Spring to lick the soldiers of King George,
We hold were worthy of their place in story and in song,
But Secretary Baker thinks that we have got them wrong!

THEY would not be impressive in our Tremont street parades.
They would not shine at dances or as Presidential aides.
Their uniforms weren't always clean; their marching was a sight
They had just one accomplishment—they sure knew how to fight.
We've always thought them splendid types of good, clean Yankee grit;
But Secretary Baker does not care for them a bit.

HALF fed, half clad, half trained, half armed, against a ruthless foe
(Without the lofty counsel of a man from Cleveland, O.),
They answered every call to arms, and gladly fought or fell,
And we, for whom they gave their lives, still fancy they did well.
They did not wither under blame; they did not ask for praise
They had no need of Baker's breed—in those brave fighting days.



At Last

The Japanese have invented non-inflammable celluloid, which will enable the fire-eaters in the museums to procure sets of false teeth that are at once cheap and safe.

But They Will

The hotel proprietors have not yet discovered how scarce standing timber is becoming in this country. They are still giving toothpicks away with meals.

Deny Him No Honors

Let it not be forgotten that Mr. Wilson is also the man who has kept Mexico out of peace.

Merely of Academic Interest, Locally

England has ratified Canada, Australia, New Zealand and India that she wants more men for the war. If these fail to respond it is possible that a few Englishmen may also be called for.

Turning the Other Cheek

Mr. Wilson says that Roosevelt is the only effective opposition to the Democratic party. Is he seeking to win over the Colonel by soft words?

He Never Misses One

Finding the Right Job for the Half Man

By Woods Hutchinson, M. D.

The World's Best Known Writer on Medical Subjects.

IN our tuberculosis crusade efforts were made to get kindly disposed employers to take two consumptives for one man's job, letting one of them come on duty during the morning and the other during the afternoon; but they either laughed them to scorn or shook their heads reluctantly, and vaguely but positively assured us that the plan wouldn't work; couldn't be made practical.

Finally we discovered with astonishment and even chagrin that the root of the whole difficulty was that the spirit of industrialism is not the paying of a certain wage for a certain amount of work, but the absolute purchase of the whole of the worker's hours, and then getting out of him as much work as possible in as many hours per day as he can be compelled to work, and at as low wages as he can be driven to take. A survival, in fact, of the old spirit of slavery, just as the labor unions have been telling us for scores of years, only we wouldn't believe them. If it should happen to leak out that a half man or even a whole man could earn a decent living in half or two-thirds of a day, then the bottom would drop out of the system. So we doctors began to join the discontented classes and to kick, yes, to agitate, for shorter hours, better working conditions, and higher pay, because this meant better food, decent housing and intelligent recreation.

Now a new era has dawned, thank heaven, in the industrial world, and we doctors are very proud to think that we may have had something to do with its coming, even if only officiating at the accouchement. First, it was discovered that occupations and working conditions which made the workers sicken and break down before their time didn't pay the employer any better in the long run any more than they did the workman in the short. Second, it was discovered that the capacity for improvement and increase of working power in the workman was almost unlimited, certainly indefinite, and what would formerly have been regarded as incredible.

Thirdly, and most interesting of all from a medical and biologic point of view, one of the most potent ways of increasing the output of a plant was the careful measuring and testing and classifying of the workmen, and changing every man from the type of job that was unsuited to him to the type that fitted his abilities and temperament.

A new profession arose, the so-called efficiency engineer, which the medical profession ought long ago to have invented, but it wasn't awake to its opportunities and duties, who makes a specialty of studying, grading and estimating the capabilities and fitnesses of the different makes of the human motor and advising its employer accordingly. It sounds incredible, but it is true, that the writer has been assured by a leader in this new profession that he has never yet found a plant, even of the most successful and prosperous and brilliantly up-to-date, which was developing more than two-thirds of its easily possible efficiency, and very often not more than half.

In other words, by carefully working over and redistributing a given factory or business force, without hiring or firing a single man, or changing a single wage, it was possible to add from 50 to 75 per cent. to the output and industrial capacity. And this was not only no harder, but actually easier for every individual workman, for each was now doing the work that came natural to him, instead of conscientiously striving to master and do well a job which came hard to him, and which utterly failed to fit his natural aptitudes and powers.

If You Could Live Seventy Times 21,000 Years---

You Would See the Winter and Summer of the Earth

By Garrett P. Serviss

HUMAN life is too short—not for making money, or for becoming a "great man" temporarily, but for getting a practical knowledge of the Great Year of the Equinoxes, and enjoying the swing of the earth's poles as they circle around the poles of the ecliptic. This motion of the poles, combined with the squirming around of the earth's orbit in space, periodically revolutionizes the climates in the northern and southern hemispheres.

But one would have to live 21,000 years in order to go through a single cycle of the vast changes which are produced in the course of this super-year, and if a man could survive sixty or seventy of these periods as he survives the same number of common years, he would probably reckon history by the succession of genial and glacial epochs instead of by that of ordinary Winters and Summers.

Here is the whole thing in a nutshell: The earth turns on its axis once in twenty-four hours and gives us the succession of day and night; it revolves around the sun once in 365 days and gives us the yearly changes of season; its poles revolve around the poles of the ecliptic once in 26,000 years and give us the super-year, whose length, as measured by its effect on the seasons, is cut down to 21,000 years by the creeping, or squirming, of the orbit. But this last cycle is known to us only by virtue of our intelligence, since our life is but an insect's span in comparison with it.

To understand this let us first recall that the ordinary changes of season are due to the fact that the axis around which the earth rotates does not stand upright to the plane of its orbit around the sun (which is the plane of the ecliptic), but is inclined about 23½ degrees from a perpendicular position. That being understood, the next thing is to remember that the earth's axis, although inclined, is nevertheless fixed in position, i. e., it always points the same way in space, so that, as the earth travels around the sun first one end, or pole, and then, when the earth has gone half way round its orbit, the other pole leans toward the sun.

We call one end of the earth's axis the North Pole and the other the South Pole. When the North Pole leans sunward the South Pole leans away from the sun, and vice versa.

Summer Prevails in Hemisphere Whose Pole Inclines Toward Sun

But when either pole inclines sunward the sun rises high over the hemisphere to which that pole belongs, and so Summer prevails in that hemisphere, while it is Winter in the other hemisphere, because there the sun runs low in the sky. These conditions are reversed once every twelve months, each hemisphere having a Summer half and a Winter half of the year, Spring and Autumn being simply transitional periods.

The two halves of the year would be exactly alike in each hemisphere if the earth's orbit around the sun were a perfect circle, with the sun in the centre. But, in fact, the orbit is an ellipse, or oval, with the sun situated in one of the foci of the ellipse, about 1,500,000 miles to one side of the middle.

One result of this is that the distance of the earth from the sun, about 93,000,000 miles on the average, changes to the extent of 3,000,000 miles in the course of every six months. The nearer it is, of course, the more heat it gets. At present the increase of heat at "perihelion" (the nearest point) is about 6 per cent. above the amount at "apihelion" (the farthest point).

Now we come to something of the highest importance to us who live in the northern hemisphere. It happens at present that the earth is in perihelion just at the time when the North Pole leans away from the sun, and in aphelion when it leans toward the sun. The consequence is that we have Winter when the earth is nearest the sun and our Summer when it is farthest from the sun. This naturally tends to diminish the effects of the difference in the amount of heat received at the two seasons. Our Winters are less cold than they would be if they occurred with the earth in aphelion, and our Summers less hot than if they occurred with the earth in perihelion.

Now comes the effect of the revolution of the poles, which will upset our happy condition. The statement that the earth's axis is fixed in position, while true enough when we are dealing with ordinary periods of time, is not true when we consider epochs of thousands of years. It can be likened to the peg of a spinning top which is inclined out of a perpendicular. The end of such a peg revolves in a circle, with a motion much slower than the spin of the top. In a similar way each end, or pole, of the earth's axis revolves in a circle, with one of the poles of the ecliptic for its centre of motion.

Once in 13,000 Years Comes a Complete Change in the Direction of Axis

The result of this revolution, which takes about 26,000 years, is to produce, once in 13,000 years, a complete reversal of the direction in which the earth's axis points. Just now the North Pole of the axis leans in the direction of the perihelion end of the orbit, so that the northern hemisphere has its Winter when the earth is in perihelion. But in 13,000 years the North Pole will lean in the direction of the aphelion end of the orbit, and then we shall have our Winters when the earth is in aphelion, and when it is traveling slowest, so that the Winters will be both colder and longer.

But, if you are going to understand the whole of this wonderful business, I must next explain the swinging round of the earth's orbit which has the effect of diminishing the length of the "great year." The revolution of the poles is caused by what astronomers call the precession of the equinoxes, and the motion is from east to west, an entire revolution taking 26,000 years.

The turning round of the orbit in space is called the motion of the apsides, the apsides being the perihelion and aphelion points, and this takes place from west to east.

A complete revolution of the apsides—if the motion were constant, which it is not quite—would require about 113,000 years. Combining the effects of the precession of the equinoxes and the motion of the apsides, we find that, since they swing round toward one another, they bring about an entire reversal of the slope of the earth's axis with reference to the apsides in 10,500 years, or 2,500 years sooner than such a reversal would occur through the action of the precession alone. In about 10,000 years, then, we shall have long, cold Winters and short, hot Summers in our part of the earth.

A word about our neighbors south of the equator. They at present have the long cold Winters and the short hot Summers that the future promises to us, but they suffer less from them than we shall do because their hemisphere is emphatically a water hemisphere, and a well-known effect of an oceanic climate is to mitigate the results of extremes of temperature.

At the same time the southern hemisphere shows the effect of its long and bitter Winters in the vast accumulation of ice in the Antarctic, far greater than that in the Arctic regions. Some astronomers and geologists are inclined to ascribe the great glacial ages of the past to these changes of the pointing of the poles, which, at certain epochs, much longer than those with which we have been dealing, are made more effective by variations in the eccentricity, or ovalness, of the earth's orbit.
